Rachel McLaren, Assistant Professor

_Hurtful Episodes in Parent-Adolescent Relationships: How Accounts and Attributions Contribute to the Difficulty of Talking about Hurt_

This research examines sense-making about hurtful episodes between parents and adolescents and how sense-making relates to subsequent communication. Results highlight differences in the type of events parents and adolescents find hurtful and the complex forces that influence accounts for hurtful events.

Isaac West, Assistant Professor

_QUEERING CIVIL RIGHTS_

Professor West will provide an overview of his next book project about the intermingling of various civil rights struggles in the 20th century.

Question and Answer Session

Kembrew McLeod, Professor

_PHONING IT IN: A LECTURE-PERFORMANCE ABOUT THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN MUSIC AND TELEPHONY BY THE KILLER APPS, IOWA CITY'S BEST ALL-MOBILE-PHONE COVER BAND FEATURING UI COMMUNICATION STUDIES PROF. KEMBREW MCLEOD (ROBOPROF) AND UI ENGLISH PROF. LOREN GLASS (DR. G)_

Given the current ubiquity of ringtones and mp3-playing mobile phones, the connection between music and the telephone may at first appear to be a new phenomenon. But there is a link between music and telephony that dates back to the nineteenth century, a connection that has remained unbroken through the twentieth century and into the new millennium.

Friday, March 7, 2014
4:00-5:30pm

Room 101 BCSB
Samuel L. Becker Communication Studies Building

_Individuals with disabilities are encouraged to attend all University of Iowa-sponsored events. If you are a person with a disability who requires an accommodation in order to participate in this program, contact the department at commstudies-inquiry@uiowa.edu or (319) 335-0575._