UI SPEAKS
University of Iowa Summer Program to Educate Adults and Kids Who Stutter *

What is UI SPEAKS?
A week-long residential program for teenagers who stutter.

When is it?
June 3 – 9, 2018.

Where is it held?
The Wendell Johnson Speech and Hearing Clinic at the University of Iowa in Iowa City.

Who is UI SPEAKS for?
Teens between 13-18 years. Our goal for the week is to help teens who stutter to:
- Explore what stuttering is, and what it is not
- Become aware of their own unique way of stuttering
- Make decisions about what changes they would like to make in either speaking or stuttering, or both
- Problem-solve how to make these changes
- Practice, practice, practice
- Develop a plan for future therapy AND…..
- Be in charge of the plan!

Our program is designed to give teenagers who stutter a safe and supportive place in which to “let stuttering out.” By doing this, we help them to study their stuttering so we can guide them in making decisions about how they want to manage their speech. We accomplish this through an intensive therapy format that includes five hours of daily individual and group therapy, including numerous opportunities to practice specific speech “tools” in various situations in and outside of the clinic.

Our goal is to help teens to develop their own policies about speaking and stuttering, including: what changes they want to make and how they will do it; how they will manage the social and emotional challenges they may face related to stuttering and being a person who stutters, and what they want their speech-language pathologists and parents to do to help, and how to ask for it!

What is the fee?
$800.00 includes room, board, therapy and all recreational fees.
