From floods to hurricanes to earthquakes, disasters are inflicting an ever-increasing toll on the health and wealth of nations and communities. Using case studies from around the world, we will focus on the relationship between extreme events, human behavior, disaster management, public policy, and technology to understand what makes people and places vulnerable to hazards.