LOOKING FOR A WINTERIM COURSE?

HIST:4100:0001
also known as (016:100:001)

Hist. Background of Contemporary Issues
First-Draft Histories: Epidemic Crises and the Centers for Disease Control (CDC)
Dec 29, 2014 - Jan 16, 2015
Start and end times: 12:30P - 2:50P MTWTh 137 SH
Instructors: Paul Greenough (Primary Instructor)

This is a hands-on winterim course that will focus on the practical problems faced by historians in preparing first-draft historical accounts about public health emergencies in the recent past (1950-2000). Specifically, the course will explore investigations made by US Centers for Disease Control (CDC) epidemiologists that document their responses to domestic and foreign epidemic outbreaks and other crises. Small student groups will be assigned a specific crisis and given a set of primary documents; they then will be asked to explore the contexts of and the local significance of the epidemics in documented narratives. Drawing on Library, internet and other archival sources, small groups will prepare narratives for class presentation and hand in 10-15 page accounts and Power Point slides. The instructor is Professor Greenough.

This course is approved for the Global Health Studies track in the International Studies B.A.; the International Studies minor; the Global Health Studies certificate and minor.

LOOKING FOR A PROJECT-BASED COURSE FOR SPRING 2015?

AINS:3554:0100
also known as (149:154:100)

Native Histories & Endurance in Midwest
Start and end times: 3:30-4:45pm MW 169 VAN
Instructors: Nicholas Brown (Primary Instructor)

The American Indian & Native Studies Program is very pleased to offer Native Endurance in the Midwest this spring, an interesting project-based course with no books or exams. The course focuses instead on shorter readings/class discussions, and students will complete a collaborative mapping project.

This can be used in Program option A or for the following tracks:
Human Rights, Postcolonial and Diasporic Studies, Global Artistic Trad. & Change, Global Resources & Environment

Nicholas Brown specializes in space/place, art and activism. Since Professor Brown is visiting faculty, we are not sure that it will be available in the future—but it is a great class with a 6.0/6.0 rating from previous students! Now’s definitely the time to take it!

GLOBAL INFORMATION IS POWER,
GO BEYOND GOOGLE SCHOLAR!

IS:3011
Library Strategies for International Topics (1 s.h.)
Runs March 12 – May 7, 2015, Thursdays 3:00-4:30pm

This course teaches skills for gathering and using information required for international jobs, upper-level I.S. coursework, and individual research. Students will develop a familiarity with a variety of research and popular materials, become experts in at least one academic research database and enhance their critical thinking skills. The class will feature small group activities, short student presentations and an individual research consultation with the instructor.

Questions? Email the instructor at brett-cloyd@uiowa.edu
Global@Iowa (CSI:3110) brings together new international and current domestic students to create a learning environment where all students can be introduced to the issues and experiences of the others. Course content will include defining culture and values, cultural self-awareness, building relationships across cultures, perspectives on the UI student experience, communication styles, U.S. diversity and campus resources. Assignments will include brief reflection papers, significant in-class discussion, and one small group project. Permission to register is required, and there is an online application.

Please email Shuhui Lin (shuhui-lin@uiowa.edu) if you are interested in enrolling in the Spring 2015 semester.

ICFRC Lecture Luncheon

"From Soviet Supremacy to Major Restructuring: Health Care Issues in Russia Today"
Professor Margaret Mills
Wednesday, December 10, 2014, 12:00-1:15 pm
Congregational Church – 20 N. Clinton St.
Register here, or contact (319) 335-0351 or ICFRC@uiowa.edu

Russia is going through a health care crisis. Population decline, re-emerging infectious diseases, a growing HIV/AIDS epidemic, tobacco and alcohol-related deaths, low life expectancy and declining birth rates are plaguing the nation. Individual attitudes toward "health" and social responses to reduced access to basic health care in Russia recently are contributing the urgent problems. Professor Mills will provide an overview of the history and on-going challenges to create a better health care system.

Margaret H. Mills is a Professor of Russian language and linguistics and the former Chair of the Department of Asian and Slavic Languages at the University of Iowa. She has devoted over 30 years to studying, consulting, and conducting linguistic and public health field work research in the Soviet Union and Russia.

Cultural Vistas Paid Fellowships

The Cultural Vistas Fellowship affords 12 underrepresented U.S. university students the unique opportunity to advance their career goals, develop global competencies, and experience life in another culture with eight-week summer internships in Argentina, Germany, and India.

Candidates for the Cultural Vistas Fellowship must meet the following requirements:
• U.S. citizens enrolled full-time at a four-year accredited U.S. college or university
• Rising junior or senior status; minimum GPA of 3.0
• Ages 18-30
• No formal prior work or study abroad experiences
• Prior knowledge of language of host country (applicable in Germany & Argentina only)

Strong preference will be given to students historically underrepresented in international exchange. This includes, but is not limited to Pell Grant recipients; veterans; first-generation college students; STEM majors; members of minority communities within the United States; and non-traditional students.

Learn more and apply by January 15, 2015 at http://www.culturalvistas.org,cv fellowship.

Summer Internship in International Development

GESI will equip students to
• Work directly with local communities and community organizations in Bolivia, the Dominican Republic, Kenya, Nicaragua, India, South Africa, or Uganda
• Earn two Northwestern course credits (the equivalent to six semester credits)
• Live with a host family and immerse yourself in another culture for eight weeks
• Design and implement a development project collaboratively!

To learn more about GESI, and how to apply, go to www.gesi.northwestern.edu. Applications are accepted on a rolling basis. Early deadlines are December 15, 2014 and January 15, 2015, for guaranteed first choice placement if accepted into the program. Final deadline is March 1, 2015, but please apply early, as spaces will fill.

If you have questions and want to speak to a member of the GESI staff, please contact us at gesi@northwestern.edu or 847.491.5932.

PRESIDENTIAL INTERNSHIP PROGRAM

The American University in Cairo

Established in 1981, the Presidential Internship Program at The American University in Cairo (AUC) provides recent university graduates the opportunity to spend an academic year working at the highest levels of an international university, learning Arabic, and experiencing life in Cairo. Program benefits include a monthly living stipend, faculty housing, private Arabic tutoring, subsidized trips around Egypt and more!

Interested students should visit ACUEgypt’s website for more information on the program and how to apply. You can also visit our Facebook page and blog. The application is due January 15, 2015. Contact interns@aucegypt.edu with any questions.
Apply to be Global Health Corps Fellow!

There is no single experience, background, quality or skill that makes someone the “right” candidate for the fellowship. Rather, we are looking for outstanding individuals who are seeking to apply their skills and their passion for health equity to a lifelong community of global change-makers. We do not expect that fellows will have a background in public health or that they have been involved in international development work before. We believe that global health organizations can greatly benefit from individuals who have worked in or studied a wide variety of fields. We strongly encourage applicants from all sectors to apply, including but by no means limited to engineering, finance, consulting, government, architecture, research, technology, and education. For more information, visit http://ghcorps.org/fellows/apply/

Application Requirements:
- Be 30 or under at the start of the fellowship
- Have an undergraduate university degree by July 2015
- Be proficient in English

Application Timeline for the 2015-2016 Fellowship:
- November 5, 2014: Part 1 of the application opens
- December 9, 2014: Position descriptions posted online. Part 2 of the application opens
- February 3, 2015: Applications close at 11:59pm EST

Boren Scholarships and Fellowships

The applications for the 2015-2016 David L. Boren Scholarships and Fellowships are now available at www.borenawards.org. Boren Awards provide unique funding opportunities for U.S. undergraduate and graduate students to study in Africa, Asia, Central & Eastern Europe, Eurasia, Latin America, and the Middle East, where they can add important international and language components to their educations.

Boren Scholars and Fellows represent a variety of academic backgrounds, but all are interested in studying less commonly taught languages, including but not limited to Arabic, Chinese, Korean, Portuguese, Russian, and Swahili. As part of the African Languages Initiative, Boren Award applicants have the opportunity to further their study of Akan/Twi, French, Portuguese, Swahili, Wolof, or Zulu. For a complete list of languages, visit our website.

Undergraduate students can receive up to $20,000 for an academic year's study abroad and graduate students up to $30,000 for language study and international research. In exchange for funding, recipients commit to working in the federal government for a minimum of one year.

National Application Deadlines
- Boren Fellowship: January 27, 2015
- Boren Scholarship: February 4, 2015

More information about University of Iowa deadlines can be found at http://international.uiowa.edu/funding/student-grants-and-fellowships/student-funding-awards.

For more information about the Boren Awards, to register for one of our upcoming webinars, and to access the on-line application, please visit www.borenawards.org. You can also contact the Boren Awards staff at boren@iie.org or 1-800-618-NSEP with questions. The Boren Awards are initiatives of the National Security Education Program (NSEP) and are administered by the Institute of International Education.

Spring 2015 Course

Topics in Middle East/Muslim World Studies:
Novels and the Nation in Modern Arabic

Instructor: Yasmine Ramadan
Days: T & TH 3:30-4:45pm, Location: 207 PH

Course description: This class is a survey of the modern Arabic novel from the beginning of the 20th century until the contemporary moment. The course is not exhaustive, but rather introduces students to some of the major landmarks of Arabic literature, focusing upon the relationship between the novel and the nation. We will read the literary works with an attention to literary form, genre, and technique, as well as situating them within their socio-economic and political contexts. Works will be examined with an attention to the major thematic concerns that have preoccupied writers in the region for the past century; among them the conflict between tradition and modernity; the struggle for national independence; issues of gender and sexuality; revolts and revolutions; and the encounter between East and West. We will end the course with a look at examples of popular cult novels that have been published by young writers in the last decade.

Students will read works from across the Arab world including Egypt, Lebanon, Algeria, Sudan, Palestine, Morocco and Saudi Arabia.

Works will be read in their English translation. This course has been approved for the Islamic and Middle Eastern Studies track for ISBA.
MASTERS IN GLOBAL STUDIES

The University of California at Santa Barbara offers a two-year Master of Arts in Global Studies. This cutting-edge, interdisciplinary program was launched in 2006 and has been highly successful in training students to think critically about the challenges of the 21st century. Generous fellowship packages are available on a competitive basis.

The curriculum includes three areas of specialization:
1) global political economy, sustainable development, environment
2) global culture, ideology, and religion
3) global governance, human rights, and civil society

The MA degree is intended to provide an understanding of the political, social, cultural and economic forces that are shaping global societies, institutions and organizations.

WHY DO A MASTERS IN GLOBAL STUDIES?

Students pursue the MA degree as preparation for working in private and public sectors as well as academia. Many graduates go on to PhD programs, law schools, careers in non-governmental organizations (NGOs), business and government.

In addition to the MA degree, UCSB also offers a PhD in Global Studies. http://www.global.ucsb.edu/phd

Fellowship Opportunities

Fellowships and paid teaching and research opportunities are offered each year to support students. All applicants are also eligible for UCSB campus-wide multi-year fellowships.

How to Apply

The online application for the upcoming academic year is available in early September.

The application deadline is December 15, 2014.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, SANTA BARBARA

PhD IN GLOBAL STUDIES

The University of California at Santa Barbara offers an interdisciplinary Doctorate in Global Studies. Launched in 2014, this cutting-edge program is designed to meet the challenges of the 21st century. Fellowship support is provided to incoming students on a competitive basis.

The new PhD Program at UCSB is the first of its kind at a Tier-1 Research University in the United States. It joins our highly successful MA in Global Studies which has been operating for the past decade. The Doctoral curriculum includes these areas of specialization:

1) global political economy, sustainable development, environment
2) global culture, ideology, and religion
3) global governance, human rights, and civil society

The program typically involves elective courses in an area of specialization, mastery of a second language, fieldwork, and the completion of a PhD dissertation to earn the degree. Students are encouraged to compose a doctoral committee of Global Studies core faculty and faculty affiliates from across the campus.

WHY DO A PhD IN GLOBAL STUDIES?

This PhD degree provides an understanding of the economic, political, social, and cultural forces that are shaping our contemporary world. Faculty specializations include political economy, development studies, law, human rights, religion, culture, sustainability, and international environmental politics.

In addition to the PhD degree, UCSB also offers a Masters in Global Studies. http://www.global.ucsb.edu/graduate

The Freeman Chair in China Studies is now accepting internship applications for the Spring 2015 semester

Position Title: Research Intern
Program/Dept.: Freeman Chair in China Studies
Position Location: Washington, DC
Reports To: Research Associate & Program Coordinator
Application Deadline: December 8, 2014
Internship Period: January 5, 2015 - May 30, 2015 (approximate)

The Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS) is a Washington-based non-profit, bipartisan public policy organization established in 1962 to provide strategic insights and practical policy solutions to decision makers concerned with global security and prosperity.

JOB SUMMARY:
CSIS is seeking several research interns to support the China studies program during the spring (January-May 2015). The Freeman Chair in China Studies is dedicated to delivering informed public policy debate, expert briefings, and strategic policy recommendations on greater China and East Asia. Key research areas as they relate to the available internships include U.S.-China relations, China-North Korea relations, cross-Strait relations, U.S.-China-Taiwan relations, Asian maritime disputes, Chinese domestic politics, and regional economics. Because of the fast-paced work environment, interns should be motivated self-starters that are able to engage in a wide variety of analytic and logistical task work.

- Write for our Asia policy blog, cogitAsia
- Opportunities to co-author articles with senior scholars
- Assist in research, writing and analysis for articles, conference reports, event summaries, grant proposals, and other such projects as dictated by program needs
- Assist in spot and background research
- Monitor events in Northeast Asia and China, and reporting daily
- Provide logistical and administrative support with ongoing programs and projects
- Assist in event planning and staffing
- Assist with any special tasks, presentations, projects, reports
- Translate articles and speeches from Chinese to English and English to Chinese
- Perform a variety of other Freeman Chair related duties as assigned

Requirements:

KNOWLEDGE, EDUCATION, AND EXPERIENCE:
- Applicants currently enrolled in or those that have recently completed a master’s degree are preferred, but undergraduates welcome to apply
- Must have at least a 3.0 GPA (on a 4.0 scale) from an accredited U.S. institution or equivalent from a non-U.S. institution
- Must be eligible to work in the United States
- Must be able to commit to at least 25-35 hours a week
- Must have strong writing and research skills
- Must have strong communication and interpersonal skills
- Must have strong analytical skills
- Must have the ability to work independently
- Must have the ability to manage competing priorities and multiple projects under tight deadlines
- Must demonstrate academic/professional background in Chinese foreign policy and national security issues
- Mandarin language ability not required but highly desirable

APPLICATION MATERIALS:
Interested applicants, please apply here. All applicants must submit the following:
1. A resume and cover letter in one PDF document
2. A short (no more than 5 pages) writing sample of your own or based on the following prompt: Evaluate China’s recent bilateral relations with one of its neighbors. Has that relationship changed since Xi Jinping came to power? Why or why not? What conclusions can be drawn about Chinese foreign policy generally?
3. One letter of recommendation – submit to jvitello@csis.org.

If you have additional materials, please submit them to jvitello@csis.org.

Need help finding us? Use the map of our new location on csis.org with parking lots and metro stops.

Attention graduating seniors and recent graduates:

The online application for the 2015 Thomas R. Pickering Graduate Foreign Affairs Fellowships is now open. The Pickering Fellowship helps talented students who want to pursue a Foreign Service career in the U.S. Department of State.

!The Most Interesting Work in the World: The Thomas R. Pickering Foreign Affairs Fellowship Program

Funded by the State Department, the Pickering Fellowships honor Career Ambassador Thomas R. Pickering, one of the nation’s most respected Foreign Service Officers. The goal of the program is to attract outstanding students from all ethnic and social backgrounds who are dedicated to representing America’s interests abroad. Women, members of minority groups historically underrepresented in the Foreign Service, and students with financial need are encouraged to apply.

The Pickering Graduate Fellowships provide up to $37,500 annually for academic expenses, covering the first and second year of graduate study, and include two paid State Department summer internships (domestic and abroad), as well as professional development through workshops and informational seminars and mentoring by U.S. Foreign Service Officers. At the time of application, eligible students must be current seniors or college graduate who will be entering a two-year terminal master’s degree program in the fall of the Fellowship year; they must have a minimum undergraduate GPA of 3.2 (4.0 scale); and they must be United States citizens.

The application deadline is January 16, 2015.

More information is available on the program’s website at www.woodrow.org/pickering.

Summer Research Initiative to Increase Diversity

The University of Maryland, College Park is the flagship campus in the University of Maryland system and is home to first-class researchers and research facilities. The university’s location, just nine miles from downtown Washington, D.C. and approximately 30 miles from Baltimore, provides access to some of the finest libraries, research centers, and professional opportunities in the country.

UMD BSOS Summer Research Initiative (SRI)

Our program provides rising juniors and seniors an opportunity to increase their interest in research careers in the social and behavioral sciences, develop research skills, and learn about doctoral training with the goal of encouraging students to pursue doctoral degrees in the social and behavioral sciences. The program has a special emphasis on population groups underrepresented in these fields (i.e., African Americans, Hispanics, American Indians, Alaska Natives, Native Hawaiians or other Pacific Islanders).

I have improved tremendously as a researcher, scholar, and professional in my eight weeks at the University of Maryland.

—2013 SRI Scholar

Program Details

This 8-week program will be held on the University of Maryland, College Park campus from June 1 – July 24, 2015. Students will be provided a meaningful research experience by working with a faculty mentor in one of our nine academic departments (visit http://www.bsos.umd.edu for department list). We also supplement the research experience with lectures, workshops, and networking opportunities. Students are provided round-trip airfare, meals, room and board in university on-campus housing and $3,150 (before taxes – amount includes stipend and meal allowances).

Basic Eligibility

- Junior or senior status by Fall 2015
- U.S. citizen or permanent resident status
- Intent to pursue a Ph.D. in the social and behavioral sciences
- We are especially interested in applications from students underrepresented in the social, behavioral, and economic sciences
