Get Paid for your Research Partnership!

ICRU’s Research Fellows Program has provided funding to 1,000+ students to engage in research and creative projects. The program allows current University of Iowa undergraduates - in every discipline - to work with UI faculty or P&S staff mentors on a specific project with a scholarship of either $2,000 during the academic year or $2,500 during the summer. The online application is now open. Application deadline for summer 2015 is March 1; for academic year 2015-2016, deadline is March 29.
Now Open for Spring 2015!
Class runs March 12-May 7
Thursdays, 3:00-4:30pm; 4037 LIB
1 semester-hour

Last semester, students said:

“I really learned a ton about conducting research. Brett is a great instructor, very helpful in and outside of the classroom. Taking this course has dramatically improved my research skills.”

“I wish I would have taken it earlier, so I could have had this knowledge under my belt. I would definitely recommend it to another student.”

“I would absolutely recommend this class. It helps with doing research of any kind, which everyone should have skills in.”

ICFRC Lecture Luncheon

"Indigenous Struggles: A Sámi Perspective"
Kelsey Frisk, UI Undergraduate Student, International Studies Stanley Award Recipient
Thursday, February 12, 2015, 12:00-1:15 pm
Congregational Church – 30 N. Clinton St., Iowa City, IA 52245
Register here, or contact (319) 335-0351 or ICFRC@uiowa.edu

The reindeer-herding Sámi people of northern Norway, Sweden, and Finland are the only indigenous population to be recognized and protected in Scandinavia. Collectively herding around two thousand reindeer, the Sámi people have nomadically inhabited Fenno-Scandinavia for over 10,000 years. However, the combined forces of climate change, technology, increased industrial activity, and land-loss have led to a large shift in the traditional Sámi diet, lifestyle, and mental health status. Kelsey will discuss the impacts of these changes on the bodily and psychosocial health of Finno-Ugric Sámi and ways in which these changes may shape their future.

Kelsey Frisk is a fourth-year undergraduate Honors student with the Interdepartmental Studies major. She studies global health with a strong interest in the health and human rights of indigenous populations. She recently received a Stanley Award for International Research to study perceptions of health among the Sámi people in northern Sweden from January-July 2014.

Volunteer in summer 2015 in Ecuador or Romania with the Dr. Ken Magid Child Advocacy Scholarship

Founded in 2005 by donor and UI graduate, Linda Baker, the Dr. Ken Magid Child Advocacy Service Scholarship is available for qualified UI students. The UI Alumni Association Iowa Voyagers offers opportunities for UI students to travel overseas on volunteer service programs. We encourage students to take advantage of these opportunities not only to serve, but to experience other cultures in Romania and Ecuador. For two weeks, they nurture babies, toddlers, and pre-schoolers in daycare settings and help school-age children practice their conversational English skills.

2015 Program Dates:
Romania: May 23 - June 6, 2015
Ecuador: May 16 - 30, 2015

Application Deadline – Feb. 13, 2015 Check the Alumni Association’s website for information on the scholarship requirements and how to apply.

Scholarship for Critical and Less Commonly Taught Languages

The Division of World Languages, Literatures and Cultures (DWLLC) offers an opportunity to learn critical and less commonly taught languages through autonomous language learning. With the support of the Autonomous Language Learning Network (ALLNet) staff members, learners design their own study plans to learn basic language skills or improve upon existing skills in preparation for academic or professional goals. Students wishing to participate in ALLNet should complete an online application form.

For more information on how to become a consultant for ALLNet or if you are a student who wishes to study critical or less commonly taught languages (LCTLS), please contact Elena Osinskaya, DWLLC Language Initiatives Manager, elena-osinsky@uiowa.edu.

Paid Language/Culture Consultants are Needed for Danish, Khmer, Norwegian, Vietnamese

SPRING ’15 SEMESTER
Time: Flexible

Native speakers of critical and less commonly taught languages are sought as paid language/culture consultants for an innovative language program available to UI students, faculty and staff. This program, called Autonomous Language Learning Network (ALLNet), matches paid consultants in various languages NOT currently taught at the University of Iowa with UI students, faculty and staff wishing to learn those languages for academic or professional goals.

Each consultant meets with a student twice a week to give the learner an important opportunity to practice speaking the target language. The consultants will be trained by ALLNet staff members and will be reimbursed for their services up to three hours a week ($16.00/hour).

For more information on how to become a consultant for ALLNet or if you are a UI student, faculty or staff member who wishes to study critical or less commonly taught languages contact Elena Osinskaya, Language Initiatives Manager, Division of World Languages, Literatures and Cultures (DWLLC), elena-osinsky@uiowa.edu. More information about the ALLNet program: http://clas.uiowa.edu/dwllc/allnet.

ELS and the United Nations Announce Student Essay Contest
Many Languages, One World 2015

Essay Submissions Deadline: March 25, 2015

ELS Educational Services, Inc. is pleased to announce our sponsorship, in conjunction with the United Nations and partnered with Adelphi University, of the Many Languages, One World Student Essay Contest and Global Youth Forum for 2015.

The contest will qualify contestants for a trip to New York to participate in the UN Global Youth Forum and ELS Preparatory Conference. The goal of the Student Essay Contest and Global Youth Forum is to support multilingualism, to reflect on UN sustainability goals, and to recognize the continued impact of the six UN official languages: Arabic, Chinese, English, French, Russian and Spanish. As such, students are being asked to write essays in their second or third language. Students must be sponsored by a University Faculty Member or Authorized University Representative in order to participate.

For more information please contact John Nicholson at JNicholson@ELS.edu.

Doctors Without Borders Webcast

It’s the largest migration corridor in the world, a passageway through which some 300,000 Central Americans enter Mexico every year, many of whom try to continue onwards to the US. Journeying by boat, on foot, and on a notorious train called The Beast, they cover thousands of miles, and along the way, many find the same thing they are fleeing: violence that can leave them injured or traumatized. But because of their legal status, they cannot access basic health care to help them recover while on the move. For this reason, Doctors Without Borders/Médecins Sans Frontières (MSF) has established a series of clinics that offer medical and mental health care at key points along the route.

Join us for an in-depth discussion on the health consequences of Central American migration through Mexico, and a look at the humanitarian needs of the migrants who undertake the journey. MSF experts from our programs in Honduras and Mexico will share their insights into the difficult and dangerous circumstances that migrants endure as they try to find safe passage.

Panelists include:
Marc Bosch Bonacasa is the head of mission for MSF’s projects in Mexico. Maria Cristobal is the mental health referent for MSF’s mission in Mexico. Maggie Wideau, RN, spent nine months as project coordinator in Tegucigalpa, Honduras, where she oversaw a program that provided medical and psychological support for victims of violence and the city’s homeless population. Sandra Murillo, moderator, is the medical communications officer for MSF-USA.

The Public Service Fellows Program at the Partnership for Public Service is an opportunity for undergraduate students, graduate students and recent graduates to participate directly in transforming the way government works while developing valuable professional skills.

At the Partnership, fellows are assigned substantive and meaningful work that is integral to the day-to-day operations, programs and activities of our organization. Fellows’ duties vary across the Partnership’s internal teams, but often include event planning and execution, conducting research, writing and preparing correspondence, and conducting outreach to external partners, such as government agencies and colleges and universities.

True to the Partnership’s emphasis on people, the fellows program incorporates opportunities for professional and personal growth through workshops and trainings specifically geared toward students and young professionals. Fellows also receive the following stipends:

- Full-time fellows with an undergraduate or graduate degree receive $1000 per month.
- Full-time fellows who are currently undergraduate students receive $800 per month.
- Stipends for part-time fellows will be pro-rated accordingly.

Who Should Apply

The Partnership strives to be an inclusive organization that fosters learning, collaboration and respect. We actively recruit for diversity in our workplace, believing that a range of backgrounds, perspectives and experiences contributes to our mission of revitalizing government. We seek extraordinary undergraduate students, graduate students and recent graduates with:

- A commitment to public service
- Strong written and oral communication
- Analytical thinking
- An ability to work well in teams

There is no single academic major or background we prefer over another—if you share our passion and are committed to developing your skills while gaining valuable experience, we want to hear from you!

The application for the Summer 2015 term closes on Friday, February 27. Apply today!
The Journal of Undergraduate International Studies at the University of Wisconsin-Madison is currently accepting submissions for its Spring 2015 issue.

Summer 2015 International Program Intern
Washington, D.C.

The Center for Economic and Policy Research is currently looking for a full-time International Program Intern for Summer 2015 (June-August). Responsibilities include assisting staff with research on upcoming papers and opinion pieces; organizing events with Latin American delegations, CEPR staff, and visiting academics; assisting in tracking and logging press mentions; as well as working on outreach to press, advocacy organizations, and Congress. The responsibilities vary based on their interests and experience, as well as the particular issues that CEPR is working on at the time. Interns will be able to attend relevant events around Washington, DC.

Qualifications:
They are looking for applicants with a general understanding of economics, international relations, and democracy issues, and an interest in economic justice. Previous research, data and/or outreach experience is extremely helpful; interns with strong economics or foreign policy experience (including Master’s degrees) will have the opportunity to engage in serious research, and those with strong organizing or outreach experience will have event management opportunities. The intern will need to be fluent in Spanish, including the ability to perform accurate written translations; able to work in a fast-paced environment with limited management; and be a self-starter and independent learner. He/she should have excellent writing and communications skills.

Stipend:
At least $1,617 per month, plus up to $250 for health insurance reimbursement.

To Apply: Send cover letter, resume, and a brief (2 page) answer to the question “How can the US improve its foreign policy toward Latin America?” via email to internationalintern@cepr.net. No calls or faxes please.

Closing Date of Position: March 6, 2015.
Master's in Community Organizing with the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee and AUSM

Learn the theory and practice of community organizing from teachers and mentors who spent a life time at it. The University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee master degree in community organizing is a unique collaborative partnership with the Autonomous University of Social Movements (AUSM). Based in the Centro Autónomo in Chicago, the program offers the only master degree in community organizing in the country. Students combine discussion-based academic classes with hands on experience and regular mentoring from experienced community organizers.

Classes include:

- Popular education theory and practice, grounded in the work of Paolo Freire and Antonio Gramsci
- An in-depth look at community organizing models, including autonomous, Alinsky-style, faith-based, identity-based, labor, and cultural organizing
- Issues in community organizing, including race/gender/class dynamics, cross-cultural communication, leadership, and challenges facing immigrant communities
- Issues in urban organizing, including social and political geography, police, public education, and public health
- Political analysis, including power analysis, anti-capitalist perspectives, local power structures, and political parties

Each student designs and implements a community practicum, which might include:

- Working with women's cooperatives dedicated to food preparation, cleaning services or day care
- Developing community responses to police harassment, sub-par public education, foreclosure and eviction, wage theft, or the lack of cultural outlets for youth
- Developing popular education curriculum for teaching ESL or bilingual adult high school classes
- Defending homeowners facing foreclosure and tenants facing eviction

For more information call (773) 583-7728 or email ausm@mexicosolidarity.org
