A NEW UNDERGRADUATE MINOR

To Explore

- the functions of translation in the age of globalization
- the role of translation in culture formation
- translation as a means of international understanding

http://clas.uiowa.edu/dwllc/translation-global-literacy

Globalization involves, among other things, the wideranging and rapid exchange of information. Virtually all forms of global exchange—i.e. material goods, natural resources, knowledge, values, ideologies and cultures—depend on translation across languages. Aided by human migration across national borders, globalization encourages rich interaction among cultures, languages and values.

In this reality, translation becomes a crucial means of global literacy & communication, through which we come to know the others, ourselves, as well as the dynamic diversity that surrounds and shapes us.

Highly integrative, Translation for Global Literacy fosters learning at the intersection of world languages, creative writing and disciplinary programs. Study abroad is strongly encouraged.

For incoming students with proficiency in a world language besides English, including students whose first language is not English, the minor is an attractive way to enhance their communication skills and build on their UI studies in English.

Students who are interested in careers in translation usually combine the minor with a major in a world language, pursue a service learning project or an internship and, ultimately, consider graduate study in translation.

REQUIREMENTS at a glance

18 semester hours of coursework including:

- Introductory Gateway course, Translation and the Global Society
- Hands-on Translation Workshops
- Language, Linguistics, Literature & Culture courses
- Capstone Experience
- Students can complete service learning projects Study Abroad opportunities. Overseas courses in translation, IES internship programs and other hands-on experiences can count toward the requirements for the minor.

Lecture - Monsoon Harvests: Water Sustainability & Rainwater Harvesting in South India
Eric Tate, Assistant Professor in the Department of Geographical and Sustainability Sciences, will be presenting a lecture discussing water sustainability and rainwater harvesting in South India. This presentation uses the South India as a case study to explore the social, economic, and environmental dimensions of rainwater harvesting systems for smallholder agriculture.

Rainwater harvesting, a “soft path” approach towards water management, is increasingly recognized as a key strategy for combating food insecurity and water scarcity. Tate’s research team has evaluated the viability of centuries-old rainwater harvesting tanks under current climate and population pressures, culminating in a new approach for developing water sustainability indicators that better reflect interacting human and environmental processes.

The lecture is hosted by the Iowa City Foreign Relations Council, and will take place on Thursday, October 8 from 12:00PM-1:00PM at the Congregational Church (30 N Clinton St, Iowa City). Click here to register.
Panel Discussion on the Migrant and Refugee Crisis: German Perspectives

Bring your lunch and join us for a brown-bag panel discussion, The Migrant & Refugee Crisis: German Perspectives, on Monday, October 5 from 12:15PM-1:30PM (117 UCC).

The panel will feature:
- Mr. Florian Leuthner, Chief of Staff and Senior Policy Advisor for MP Niels Annen (Social Democratic Party)
- Mr. Bennet Mueller, State Executive Board Member, Green Party, Baden-Wuerttemberg
- Mr. Andreas Klein, Director of the Konrad Adenauer Foundation, Hamburg
- Mr. Cristoph Von Ingelheim, Chief of Staff and Research Officer for Ms. Andrea Lindholz, MP (Christian Social Union)

All four are participants in the State Department’s International Visitor Leadership Program traveling to eastern Iowa to learn more about US political, economic, social, and cultural issues.

The panel discussion is hosted by the Council for International Visitors to Iowa Cities (CIVIC). Click here to register.

Women’s Health Pioneer – Two Public Lectures!

The UI community is invited to attend any of the two public events on Thursday, October 8, featuring national women’s health pioneer Byllye Avery. For more than 40 years, Avery has been on the front lines of the women's health movement in the United States, leading advocacy, educational, and self-help initiatives that explore how race, gender, and class affect women's empowerment.

Through activism and a commitment to social justice, Avery has fostered a national forum for the discussion of the health issues of African American women. The founder of the Black Women's Health Imperative and co-founder of Raising Women's Voices for the Health Care We Need, she continues to document and speak on black women's health experiences in America, highlighting the effects of factors such as poverty, crime, violence, and racism.

Both events will take place on Thursday, October 8 during the following times:
10:00AM, Lecture: Why Black Women’s Health Matters (Callaghan Auditorium N110 CPHB)
4:00-5:00PM, Q&A Session: Keeping Faith: Exploring Connections Between Spirituality and Health, moderated by Assistant Professor Miesha Marzell (Callaghan Auditorium N110 CPHB)

Art Exhibit on Arranged Marriage

Public Space One will be hosting an exhibit entitled ‘arranged marriage’ by Gyan Shrosbree and Surya Gied until Saturday, October 24.

The artists describe their works:

Two works as one entity. The abstract patterns and different materials break into the scenes of figuration and surfaces. The combination of our work creates a surprising and playful conversation driven by a modular collage making approach.

80% of all people under 50 years of age will have HPV at some point in their lives. One in two current college students have HPV.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the human papillomavirus (HPV) is thought to be responsible for more than 90% of anal and cervical cancers, about 70% of vaginal and vulvar cancers, and more than 60% of penile cancers.

“Someone You Love: The HPV Epidemic” is a feature length in-depth documentary on the stories of struggle, tragedy and triumph surrounding this complicated and often misunderstood infection. Women are living with (and dying from) HPV related cancers every single day. These women are real. Real Mothers, Real Daughters, Real Wives, Girlfriends, Friends and Sisters. Anybody who has been sexual with even one partner is at a high risk for catching HPV. This documentary lifts the veil and reveals some of the faces of HPV and sheds light on the risks, myths, problems, politics, misconceptions and hard truths about this widespread epidemic.

TARGET AUDIENCE
Healthcare professionals and the public.

November 6-7
Registration now open!

WFAN is pleased to host our 2015 annual conference in partnership with the Quad Cities Food Hub! The conference will be Friday and Saturday, November 6 and 7, at the Radisson Quad City Plaza in Davenport, Iowa, and our theme is: Women Protecting Pollinators, Protecting Food.

Click here to learn more about the conference and to register.

The Quad Cities Food Hub is a bi-state initiative (staffed almost entirely by women) that connects farmers and consumers in Iowa and Illinois, in an effort to augment regional local food production and consumption. It's part of a network of Regional Food System Working Groups in the state of Iowa.

Two outstanding projects are their Shared Use Community Kitchen, and Local Market Store, both located in the QCFH headquarters at the historic Freight House building on the banks of the Mississippi River. The Freight House also contains a farmers' market, a farm-to-table deli and a craft brewery and pub -- all within walking distance of the Radisson. Our urban ag field tour on Friday will make a stop at the Food Hub, and our popular Friday evening farm-to-table tasting event will take place in the community kitchen.

See the draft agenda and learn more about lodging, field tours and intensives, and our keynote speaker at the conference page on our website.
The Global Health & Innovation Conference at Yale University on April 16–17, 2016, is the world's leading and largest global health conference as well as the largest social entrepreneurship conference, with 2,200 professionals and students from all 50 states and more than 55 countries. MUCH: Midwest Undergraduate Conference in the Humanities, 2015

Saturday, November 7, 2015  Wartburg College

Wartburg College in Waverly, Iowa will host the 5th Midwest Undergraduate Conference in the Humanities on November 7, 2015. We invite submissions focusing on any area of original research-based scholarship in the humanities, including creative work, from colleges and universities in the Midwest. Presentations may take the form of 10-15 minute papers, readings, displays, and lecture-recitals. We particularly welcome scholarship utilizing interdisciplinary approaches and/or engaging with questions of diversity.

Students will need to ask a faculty member in their field of research to sponsor the paper. The faculty member should be willing to offer guidance as the student develops and refines the project. We would also like to extend an invitation to faculty sponsors to attend the conference and to serve as panel moderators.

Proposals (200 word max) should be submitted along with the submission form to: MUCHconference@gmail.com. This address should be used only for submissions.

Questions can be submitted to Zak Montgomery (zak.montgomery@wartburg.edu)

Deadline for submissions: October 2, 2015  Anticipated Registration Fee: $25

The University of California at Santa Barbara offers a two-year Master of Arts in Global Studies. This cutting-edge, interdisciplinary program was launched in 2006 and has been highly successful in training students to think critically about the challenges of the 21st century. Generous fellowship packages are available on a competitive basis.

The curriculum includes three areas of specialization:

1) global political economy, sustainable development, environment
2) global culture, ideology, and religion
3) global governance, human rights, and civil society

The MA degree is intended to provide an understanding of the political, social, cultural and economic forces that are shaping global societies, institutions and organizations.

WHY DO A MASTERS IN GLOBAL STUDIES?

Students pursue the MA degree as preparation for working in private and public sectors as well as academia. Many graduates go on to PhD programs, law schools, careers in non-governmental organizations (NGOs), business and government.

In addition to the MA degree, UCSB also offers a PhD in Global Studies. http://www.global.ucsb.edu/phd

Fellowship Opportunities

Fellowships and paid teaching and research opportunities are offered each year to support students. All applicants are also eligible for UCSB campus-wide multi-year fellowships.

How to Apply

The online application for the upcoming academic year is available in early September.

The application deadline is December 15, 2015.

The University of California at Santa Barbara offers an interdisciplinary Doctorate in Global Studies. Launched in 2014, this cutting-edge program is designed to meet the challenges of the 21st century. Fellowship support is provided to incoming students on a competitive basis.

The new PhD Program at UCSB is the first of its kind at a Tier-1 Research University in the United States. It joins our highly successful MA in Global Studies which has been operating for the past decade. The Doctoral curriculum includes three areas of specialization:

1. global political economy, sustainable development, environment
2. global culture, ideology, and religion
3. global governance, human rights, and civil society

The program typically involves elective courses in an area of specialization, mastery of a second language, fieldwork, and the completion of a PhD dissertation to earn the degree. Students are encouraged to compose a doctoral committee of Global Studies core faculty and faculty affiliates from across the campus.

WHY DO A PhD IN GLOBAL STUDIES?

This PhD degree provides an understanding of the economic, political, social, and cultural forces that are shaping our contemporary world. Faculty specializations include political economy, development studies, law, human rights, religion, culture, sustainability, and international environmental politics.
