“One of the chief difficulties in journalism now is to keep the news instinct from running rampant over the restraints of accuracy and conscience.”
Joseph Pulitzer, “The College of Journalism” (1904)

“The primary purpose of journalism is to provide citizens with the information they need to be free and self-governing.”

ABOUT THIS COURSE: Welcome to Journalism Ethics! In this course, we will learn about ethical principles, consider standards of practice and behavior for professional journalists, and look at American journalism both as it is and as how we might like it to be.

Our focus will be primarily on the ethics of people and institutions whose social role is to inform others about civic affairs and issues. Although all public communicators share a need to maintain credibility as well as some underlying ethical principles, our emphasis will be on “the news” and the people who provide it.

This course will help you work out your own guiding ethical principles, both individually and by exploring ideas with others. It will equip you with a toolbox for making sound ethical judgments and provide practice in using those tools. By the end of the semester, you will have gained:

* A framework for the process of making good ethical decisions as both journalists and citizens.
* A deeper understanding of the role of the media in a democratic society – the role that underlies our need for ethical journalism in the first place.
* Insight into the ethical challenges facing journalists today.

CLASS WEBSITE/BLOG: We’re online at: iowajournalismethics.wordpress.com

ONLINE SYLLABUS: The online syllabus (iowajournalismethics.wordpress.com/syllabus) will provide updated info and readings throughout the semester.
INSTRUCTOR:  Dr. Jane B. Singer
W341 Adler Journalism Building; jane-singer@uiowa.edu; 335-3431

Office Hours:  2 to 4 pm Tuesdays, 2 to 3 pm Wednesdays, or by appointment

About your instructor:  Jane has 15 years experience as a print and online journalist. She is co-author of Online Journalism Ethics, a contributing editor of Media Ethics magazine, and an editorial advisory board member of the Journal of Mass Media Ethics. Jane holds a Ph.D. in journalism from the University of Missouri-Columbia, an M.A. in liberal studies from New York University and a bachelor's in journalism from the University of Georgia. She came to iowa in 1999 but worked at a university in England from 2007 through 2009.

SCHOOL INFORMATION:  School of Journalism and Mass Communication, E305 Adler Journalism Building
Office phone:  335-3486 (Michele Ketchum or Rosemary Zimmerman)
Director:  David Perlmutter, E305B AJB; david-perlmutter@uiowa.edu

The School is part of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences (www.clas.uiowa.edu), which is our administrative home. The College oversees such matters as add/drop deadlines, second-grade-only options and the like. See the CLAS Academic Policies Handbook: www.clas.uiowa.edu/students/handbook.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY:  Please refer to the CLAS Academic Policies Handbook for information about academic honesty. University penalties for plagiarism – defined in Webster's New World Dictionary as taking ideas, writings and so on from another and passing them off as one's own – range from grade reduction to dismissal from the University. The same rules apply online as elsewhere: IF SOMEONE ELSE CREATED IT, THAT PERSON OR ORGANIZATION OWNS IT. For journalists and other public communicators, plagiarism or other dishonesty is a sin deadly to any career. Don't do it.

ATTENDANCE:  Failure to attend class regularly will adversely affect your grade. If you cannot avoid missing class, you must let Jane know the reason for your absence within 24 hours. (E-mail is fine.)

“Attendance” involves attending mentally as well as physically. During class, cell phones must be turned off and stored, and laptops or tablets may be used only for taking notes unless instructed otherwise. Please, no texting, FB, email, etc., etc. Their use in the classroom is rude, annoying and distracting.

E-MAIL:  University policy specifies that students are responsible for all official and class-related correspondence sent to their University of Iowa e-mail address (NAME@uiowa.edu).

GRADUATE CREDIT:  Students enrolled in the Graduate College must successfully complete substantive additional work to receive credit for this class. Please talk with Jane about details.

HONORS CREDIT:  Any member of the University Honors Program is eligible to take this course for honors credit. Supplemental work must meet quality standards to qualify for honors credit. Please talk with Jane about possibilities.

LEARNING ENABLEMENT:  If you need academic accommodation for any disability, please register with Student Disability Services (www.uiowa.edu/~sds), then meet privately with Jane to make the necessary arrangements.

RIGHTS and RESPONSIBILITIES:  You have a right to expect an environment that enables you to learn. You have a responsibility to colleagues and to Jane to help create an environment in which others may learn. If you have a complaint against any faculty member, you are responsible for following procedures in the CLAS Academic Policies Handbook. However, please try to work out a solution with those involved first, starting with Jane.

The University also has an explicit policy related to sexual harassment, which subverts the mission of the institution and threatens the well-being of its members. All members of the UI community have a responsibility to uphold this mission and to contribute to a safe environment that enhances learning. Incidents of harassment should be reported at once.

SEVERE WEATHER:  If threatening weather occurs during class, seek appropriate shelter immediately. Class will continue if possible when the event is over. The Hawk Alert site (hawkalert.uiowa.edu) contains details about notification of weather and other emergencies.

TIME ALLOCATION:  College policy states that for each semester hour of credit in a course, students should expect to spend two hours per week in out-of-class work or preparation. This is a 3 s.h. class, which means an average of six hours a week of outside-of-class work.
GRADING

A total of 1,000 points will be possible in Journalism Ethics. All work must be completed on time to be eligible for full credit. This page provides the breakdown for undergraduates. Additional work will be required for graduate students. Details about all assignments will be provided in class.

TESTS
(400 points total)

We will have three tests during the semester, worth a total of 400 points. The tests will cover main ideas and their applications. We will not have a final exam.

- First test, 100 points: Thursday, Feb. 14 (sorry about that …)
- Second test, 150 points: Thursday, April 4
- Third test, 150 points: Thursday, May 2

DECISION-MAKING and DISCUSSION, small group project
(250 points total)

Most Thursdays, a pair of two-person teams will lead the class in an ethical decision-making exercise, worth 100 points for the leaders and up to 20 points for other online and in-class participants. These exercises typically will draw on case studies from your readings.

Note: You cannot earn the full complement of points if you are absent.

ETHICAL ANALYSIS OF JOURNALISTIC WORK
(200 points total)

You will find two current (January 2013 or later) stories or other items in the media that raise a significant ethical issue in your mind. You will provide a copy of the item plus your analysis of it, based on ethical concepts (principles, philosophical approaches, codes, tools, whatever) discussed in class or in your readings. Each analysis is worth 100 points.

Watch for these all semester; the better your selected item, the easier your job will be. In fact, why not go ahead and write your analysis when you see a good candidate? It will be a more pleasurable and valuable experience if you don’t do it “on deadline” but rather when something catches your interest (and you have the time to devote to it). But for hard-core deadline addicts:

- First analysis is due no later than: Tuesday, March 5
- Second analysis is due no later than: Tuesday, April 23

NEWSROOM POLICY, individual / group project
(150 points total)

You will gather and share (through our class blog) ideas, information and resources about a selected aspect of journalism ethics. Working with other class members interested in the same topic, you will then develop a newsroom policy for making ethical decisions in that area.

- Checkpoint one, (two items), 20 points: Tuesday, April 2
- Checkpoint two, (five items), 50 points: Tuesday, April 30
- Newsroom policy, 80 points: During our final exam time (to come)

MAKE-UPS:

… will be permitted only in documented emergencies and only if completed before the graded assignment is returned to students who did the assignment (or took the test, etc.) on schedule, which may be as early as the following class meeting.

PLUS-MINUS:

We will use plus-minus indications for final grades.

GRADE CHANGES:

If you believe a mistake has been made on a grade, you must see Jane within one week after the assignment, exercise or test has been returned to you. After that, the grade stands.
PROPOSED SCHEDULE OF CLASSES, READINGS and ASSIGNMENTS

Here is a tentative outline of where we will go together this semester, subject to change as events and your interests dictate. After the first week, please complete the readings (on the right below) by Tuesday.

One copy of Journalism Ethics: A Philosophical Approach and one copy of Elements of Journalism are on reserve at the Main Library. All books also are available through the Journalism Resource Center (E350 AJB).

Required readings that are not in one of the three required texts or available for free online can be accessed through the “Readings” tab on our class website (iowaJournalismEthics.wordpress.com/Readings).

Additional online readings may be incorporated (and/or other stuff deleted) as new materials appear.

THE IOWA DOZEN

The mission of our School is to educate journalism and mass communication professionals, scholars and faculty. Through professional and creative research activities, members of each of these groups enhance a continually growing and evolving understanding of the social and cultural roles, responsibilities, and contexts for communicators in a democratic society, as well as in diverse global contexts.

To accomplish that mission:

We learn to ...

1. Write correctly, clearly and well.
2. Conduct research and gather information responsibly. **
3. Edit and evaluate carefully.
4. Use media technologies thoughtfully.
5. Apply statistical concepts accurately.

We value ...

6. Free speech and First Amendment principles for all individuals and groups. **
7. A diverse global community. **
8. Creativity and independence. **
9. Truth, accuracy and fairness. **

We explore ...

10. Theories and concepts. **
11. The history, structure and economy of media institutions. **
12. The role of media in shaping cultures.

Starred items are especially emphasized in Journalism Ethics.
ONLINE RESOURCES ABOUT ETHICS and the MEDIA

There are many excellent sites related to media ethics. Of course, there are hundreds of books and thousands of magazine articles, too. A scholarly journal (the Journal of Mass Media Ethics) is devoted to the topic, along with a bi-annual magazine (Media Ethics). Journalism reviews such as American Journalism Review (ajr.org), Columbia Journalism Review (cjr.org) and Quill (spj.org/quill.asp) cover ethics in every issue.
