About the Authors

Pat Gleason-Wynn, MSSW, LMSW, ACP received her Master’s degree in social work from The University of Texas at Arlington. She is currently working on her PhD in social work at UTA. For the past fourteen years she has worked with older people living in the community and in nursing homes. She has lectured to many community organizations and nursing homes about the special needs of the elderly, and the needs of caregivers.

Currently, she is self-employed as the Director of Elder Care Specialists, an assessment, consulting and education service concerned with elder care issues. She is also a part-time nursing home social worker and consultant. Pat, along with Karen, has developed continuing education programs for social workers.

Karen Fonville, MSSW, LMSW received her graduate degree in Social Work from The University of Texas at Arlington in 1990. Karen has over seven years of medical/gerontological social work experience. She has been providing social work services in nursing homes for the past six years. Her other experience includes hospice and home health social work. She has taught about the psychosocial issues of aging in the 200 hour course for nursing home administrators at the local junior college.

Currently Karen is self-employed, providing contract social work services for local nursing homes and home health agencies. Karen, along with Pat, has developed continuing education programs for social workers at the local university. She is also on the board of the Tarrant Area Gerontological Society.
