TONIGHT: Global Health Club Meeting

The Global Health Club will be holding its next General Meeting TODAY, February 18th at 8pm in the Miller Room (Rm 259) in the IMU. All majors are welcome and feel free to bring your friends!

Julie Reynolds, a graduate student for Professor Squier, will come and speak with us about global health. She is a dental public health graduate student and will discuss how her work relates to global health, what it means to her, and how she got involved. She will speak for about 20 minutes and then open it up to Q and A.

The UI Lecture Committee Presents: Roxana Saberi

What: Roxana Saberi, Human Rights Advocate, Journalist, and Author of Between Two Worlds: My Life and Captivity in Iran
Where: The Englert Theater
When: TONIGHT, February 18, 7:30 PM
How much: FREE

Abducted and placed in solitary confinement in Tehran’s notorious Evin Prison, Ms. Saberi was falsely accused of espionage and sentenced to 8 years in prison. She was released after 100 days, following an international outcry. Ms. Saberi tells the dramatic account of her imprisonment and stories of the Iranians she met during her six years living and reporting in Iran. She also shares the timeless and universal messages she learned from her fellow women political prisoners, who taught her how to find meaning in suffering, turn adversities into opportunities, and stay true to one’s principles. During her interview with Diane Sawyer, Ms. Saberi said she realized, "Do what you think is right, even if you suffer for it. In the end you will be victorious." She has worked, written, and lectured extensively on human rights issues and the ever-changing landscape of Iranian politics since her release in 2009. Visit Roxana Saberi's Website for more information!

Informatics and Library Science Spring 2013 Open House

Where: Adler Journalism and Mass Communication Building - Rotunda
When: Friday, March 1, 2013 2:00 p.m. - 4:30 p.m.

As we are often reminded, we live in an "information age." Because of the sheer volume of information, we face unprecedented challenges in processing, organizing, accessing, evaluating, and preserving all this information. It is crucial that we continue to develop ways to meet these challenges while remaining focused on our humanity as the primary locus of meaning.

INFORMATICS brings information technology together with the arts and humanities, and the natural, biological, health, and social sciences. It deals with the transformation of people by technology, and vice versa, resulting in information that has the capability to solve entirely new problems or successfully attack existing, persistent problems from a different perspective. For more information visit: http://informatics.grad.uiowa.edu/prospective-students

LIBRARY AND INFORMATION SCIENCE merges the fields of library science and information science and applies the practices, perspectives and tools of management, information technology, education and other areas to libraries, preservation, archival science, and the political economy of information. Are you passionate about global change, committed to learning by doing, and ready to engage in hands-on international development?

The summer 2013 Global Engagement Studies Institute at Northwestern University will take place June 17-August 24, 2013, and will equip you to:

- Work directly with local communities and community organizations in Uganda, India, Bolivia, Nicaragua, the Dominican Republic and Haiti, or South Africa
- Earn two Northwestern course credits (the equivalent of 6 semester credits)
- Leverage the strengths, rather than list the weaknesses, of the communities in which you live and work abroad
- Live with a host family and immerse yourself in another culture for eight weeks
- Work in teams to design and implement an original development project in youth and education, environmental development, microfinance, gender and development, global health, social enterprise, human rights, and more

To learn more: Fill out our 3-minute interest survey, visit www.gesi.northwestern.edu, or email our office at gesi@northwestern.edu. Applications are accepted on a rolling basis until March 1, 2013 for summer 2013. Apply today for the best chance of being accepted to your first choice GESI location.

Call for Applications to Dual Masters Program

Application Deadline: MARCH 1, 2013

The MA/MSc program in international and world history seeks talented applicants for its fall 2013 entry. This unique two-year program offers students an opportunity to work with preeminent historians at Columbia University and the London School of Economics to explore the transnational forces that have shaped and continue to remake our world: migration, trade, technological revolutions, epidemic disease, environmental change, wars and diplomacy.

Students spend the first year in New York and the second year in London and receive degrees from both institutions. The dual degree provides students with the opportunity to expand their perspectives by working in distinct but complementary intellectual environments. Immersed in the vibrant intellectual communities of two of the world's great cities, the program enables graduates to develop life-long contacts on both sides of the Atlantic, using Columbia and LSE as launching pads for a wide range of careers in government, journalism, NGOs, international organizations, teaching, and further academic pursuits.

For more about the program, visit www.worldhistory.columbia.edu. Please direct any further questions to worldhistory@columbia.edu.
Become a Fellow with Global Playground

Global Playground is now accepting applications for its year-long Cambodia Fellow and Thailand Fellow positions, which begin July 1, 2013.

Fellows will spend one year at their respective project sites. They will be Global Playground’s ambassadors to the host country and to the local partnering organization in each country. During the course of the year-long fellowship, Fellows will teach and/or work in Global Playground’s schools, library, and technology center. They will develop curriculum for students which promotes cross-cultural understanding. Critically, they will collaborate with other Fellows and with teachers in the United States to engage children in different parts of the world in cross-cultural dialogue.

Global Playground’s Fellows program is unpaid; however, the costs of travel, basic insurance, living and personal expenses are covered. Global Playground and/or its partnering organizations will work with each Fellow to coordinate travel to the host country and lodging near the project site. Note: Most federal student loans can be deferred until the completion of the Fellowship.

For more information and to apply, go to http://theglobalplayground.org/help/. The first application deadline is March 1; thereafter applications will be accepted on a rolling basis. Interviews will take place in Washington, DC in April and May. The position starts July 1.

The International Human Rights Exchange Program

The International Human Rights Exchange (IHRE) is the world's only full-semester, multidisciplinary program in human rights for undergraduate students. The program is based at the University of the Witwatersrand in Johannesburg, South Africa and is a joint venture with Bard College. Each semester students and faculty from Africa and North America come together to participate in a deep and multifaceted intellectual engagement in human rights. In addition to a core course, students choose from 12 or more electives exploring human rights from the perspective of a variety of academic disciplines.

IHRE also opens up possibilities for substantive participation in human rights work. Students enrolled in the Engagement with Human Rights course intern with an NGO working on contemporary rights in post-apartheid South Africa. Participants also explore human rights challenges in rural South Africa through a Community Human Rights Workshop, visit the Apartheid Museum and other important cultural and historical sites, and attend guest lectures by human rights experts from South Africa and around the world.

Applications are due March 1 for Fall 2013, October 15 for Spring 2014. For additional information see International Human Rights Exchange.
International Leadership Training Program: A Global Intergenerational Forum

The UNESCO Chair & Institute of Comparative Human Rights at the University of Connecticut invites applications for the ninth annual International Leadership Training Programme: A Global Intergenerational Forum, to be held August 9 - 18, 2013 in Storrs, Connecticut.

Applications must be received by March 8, 2013.

The Forum seeks to empower young leaders by involving them in finding solutions to emerging human rights problems, and nurturing individuals to be effective leaders in the field of human rights. To this end, the Forum will:

* Introduce participants to the United Nations Millennium Development Goals and the Universal Declaration of Human Rights
* Build a network of solidarity among human rights leaders
* Expand the knowledge relevant to human rights practice
* Provide tools and a platform for open debates
* Provide programmes, activities and processes necessary for human rights leadership
* Promote the sharing of experiences and understanding
* Showcase speakers on such topics as: health and human rights, education, the environment, the plight of child soldiers, the use of media, fundraising, conflict resolution and transformation; litigation and advocacy
* Emerging human rights issues

The UNESCO Chair will provide all conference participants with dormitory housing, meals, ground transportation in Connecticut, resource materials and a certificate of participation. Participants will be responsible for providing their own airfare to Connecticut upon acceptance.

Young people between the ages of 18-30, with community service experience, and with demonstrated ability to work on solutions to human rights problems, should apply. Relevant issues include, but are not limited to, human trafficking, the plight of children, refugees, hunger, HIV/AIDS, gender discrimination, racism, classism, the environment and peace education.

Conference will be held in English only. Fluency in English is required. Applicants will be selected based on the strength of their application essay, demonstrated commitment to human rights (practical/hands-on experience), potential impact on the individual and their potential contribution to the Forum, regional and gender representation.

For more information and applications see International Human Rights Programme.
2013 UK Summer Institutes with Fulbright

The US-UK Fulbright Commission is pleased to announce a call for applications for the 2013 UK Summer Institutes. Applications are due March 11th, 2013.

Participants in these programmes can expect an exciting academic programme at a highly regarded UK University, the chance to actively explore the culture, heritage and history of the UK, and to develop their academic ability by improving presentation, research and communication skills.

There are nine Summer Programmes available for US students in 2013:
- AIFS Summer Institute at Shakespeare's Globe
- Durham University Summer Institute
- King's College London Summer Institute
- Nottingham Trent University Summer Institute
- Queen's University Belfast Summer Institute
- Scotland Summer Institute (NEW!)
- University of Bristol Summer Institute (NEW!)
- University of Exeter Summer Institute (NEW!)
- Wales Summer Institute

The Summer Institute covers the majority of the participant costs, including round-trip airfare from the US to the UK, tuition and fees at the University, accommodation and social programme, and subsistence, i.e. food and drink.

Note: The programme is open to students in all courses of study. Students must be a US citizen (resident anywhere except the UK) and possess a US passport. For more information and application forms, click here.

Apply to present at the 2013 Spring Undergraduate Research Festival

Students are invited to present their research at the Spring Undergraduate Research Festival (SURF), which will take place 4:30-6:30pm on Wednesday, April 10, 2013 at the University Capitol Centre. This conference is co-hosted by the Iowa Center for Research by Undergraduates, University Honors Program, Office of the Vice President for Research, Office of the Provost, and the Graduate College. Students supported by an ICRU award will be presenting their research, but other University of Iowa undergraduates, especially those completing honors theses or projects, are encouraged to join the forum by presenting their research.

Questions about the Spring Undergraduate Research Festival should be directed to icru@uiowa.edu. Registration is due by March 25, 2013.
The Writing Center
at Prairie Point Middle School and 9th Grade Academy is looking for tutors!

In the Prairie Point Writing Center, 7th - 9th grade students work on writing assignments while building their ongoing confidence and competency as writers. Tutors help students to understand assignments, focus on their work, and master the idea of writing as a process.

The writing center provides volunteer tutors each day after school from 2:45 - 3:45, as well as during the day in study halls and classrooms.

Tutors are needed for both longer-term commitments (for example, once a week for a full semester) and shorter-term commitments (for example, over a few days).

If this sounds like a valuable experience for you, visit the Prairie Point web site at https://sites.google.com/site/pp9writing/home and complete the Tutor Application.

Please complete the application by March 15 if you wish to volunteer during the Spring 2013 semester.

The Prairie Point Writing Center would also be happy to partner with teacher education classes, service-learning programs, other writing centers, or college organizations.
To discuss this possibility, please go to the above web site, which contains an email link.

Prairie Point Middle School and 9th Grade Academy is in the College Community School District and is located 1 mile south of Kirkwood CR, 7 miles south of Coe College, 8 miles south of Mount Mercy University, 15 miles west of Cornell College, 22 miles north of the University of Iowa, and 24 miles north of Kirkwood IC.
Sneakz Organic Internship

Job Title: Retail Sales & Marketing Intern
Organization: Sneakz Organic
Paid internship?: Yes
Internship is available for: Spring, Summer, Fall
Hours per Week: 10-20

Job Description: At Sneakz Organic, we’re taking vegetables from YUCK to YUM! We’re entrepreneurs with extensive food & beverage experience, and we’ve created a product that helps kids eat healthier. That product is Sneakz Organic, a delicious line of milkshakes for kids that sneaks a serving of vegetables into a lunchbox drink.

We’ve recently launched in the Midwest with the Hy-Vee grocery store chain, and we need your help to make sure Sneakz is successful in your market.

Responsibilities include:

- Creating consumer interest in your market by conducting tasting/sampling sessions at stores on a regular basis
- Working with stores to schedule tastings and ensure Sneakz is in-stock and merchandised appropriately
- Developing relationships and educating store personnel on Sneakz Organic
- As market matures, additional sales & marketing responsibilities may be added

Qualifications: Successful candidate must be energetic, outgoing and comfortable interacting with moms and kids. Candidate must able to manage own schedule and will need to be in stores when they are most busy, including weekends. Will need to provide own transportation to store events, and carry/lift product cases. Student should be a Sophomore or Junior working on a Bachelors degree, with a minimum overall GPA of 3.5. Must have an interest in business and a willingness to learn sales and marketing basics. Must plan to stay in your market over summer.

Application Instructions: Submit resume along with an e-mail explaining why you’re perfect for this internship and why it sounds awesome to charlie@sneakz.com.
