Bring your questions for panelists in Refugee Resettlement, International Affairs, and Global Health

Laura Wonderlin graduated from the University of Iowa in 2011, double majoring in International Studies and Journalism. She studied Arabic at the University of Jordan during a semester abroad, and traveled extensively in the region. Laura also spent a summer in Taiwan working with other teens from around the world. She led a volunteer spring break program in the Southern United States with Students Today Leaders Forever while on campus. After college, Laura began working at the US Committee for Refugees and Immigrants placing new refugees in employment. She later transitioned to the resettlement program and helped new refugees immediately upon arrival. Due to budget cuts, Laura was let go from this position in September 2013 and is looking forward to the next big adventure.

Jack Kimball is a program officer at the Stanley Foundation where he focuses on media and citizen outreach. He joined the Foundation in April 2013 after nearly eight years as a foreign correspondent with Reuters where he worked in more than a dozen countries including Iraq and Afghanistan. Jack was the Reuters correspondent in Colombia from 2010-2013 and was based in various East African countries from 2005-2010.

Sara Maduka has been the Regional Director for Proteus, Inc. in Eastern Iowa since 2008. Over the past five years, she has worked to fulfill the organization’s dual missions of providing healthcare and job training services to farmworkers in the region’s 32 counties. Sara directs the Migrant Health Program and National Farmworker Jobs Program in the area, providing needed services to seasonal and migrant farmworkers and their families. Sara graduated from the University of Northern Iowa in 2008 with a Bachelor of Arts in Communication and minors in Spanish and Journalism. The best part about working at Proteus? Serving a population that is so often invisible but so crucial to our economy, our health, and our community.

ICFRC Lecture Luncheon – Tuesday, Oct. 29, 12:00-1:00pm

Burns Weston, Professor Emeritus, UI College of Law
"Green Governance: Ecological Stewardship through Human Rights and the Commons"

The vast majority of the world's scientists agree: We have reached a point in history where we are in grave danger of destroying Earth's life-sustaining capacity. But our attempts to protect natural ecosystems are increasingly ineffective because our very conception of the problem is limited; we treat "the environment" as its own separate realm, taking for granted prevailing but outmoded conceptions of economics, national sovereignty, and international law.

Green Governance: Ecological Survival, Human Rights, and the Law of the Commons is a direct response to the mounting calls for a paradigm shift in the way humans relate to the natural environment. It opens the door to a new set of solutions by proposing a compelling new synthesis of environmental protection based on broader notions of economics and human rights and on commons-based governance. Going beyond speculative abstractions, the book proposes a new architecture of environmental law and public policy that is as practical as it is theoretically sound.

Burns H. Weston is the Bessie Dutton Murray Distinguished Professor of Law Emeritus and Senior Scholar of the Center for Human Rights at The University of Iowa. He is also a Fellow of the World Academy of Art and Science, and a long-time - now honorary - member of the Board of Editors of the American Journal of International Law. In recognition of his human rights scholarship and programmatic innovations bridging human rights and the environment, he was awarded the degree of Honorary Doctorate of Law (LL.D.) by Vermont Law School in 2009.

Register here, or contact the ICFRC office at (319) 335-0351 or ICFRC@uiowa.edu.

Lectures are 12:00-1:15 pm @ Congregational Church, 30 North Clinton Street. Luncheons are $9.00 for ICFRC members, $12.00 for non-members. We encourage you to bring guests who would enjoy this topic. Honors students, please register through the UI Honors or the UI Honors facebook site: www.facebook.com/HonorsatIowa.

IOWA UNA TO HOST OPEN-MIC NIGHT FOR UNICEF TRICK-OR-TREAT CAMPAIGN

IOWA CITY, IA- The Iowa United Nations Association, a 501(c)3 working in Iowa since 1953, is partnering with Uptown Bill’s Coffee Shop to host an open mic night in support of the United Nations Children’s Fund Trick-or-Treat campaign. The program is at Uptown Bill’s Coffee Shop, 730 S. Dubuque St., on Wednesday, October 30 at 7:00 pm.

Art and self-expression of community members will portray the significance of United Nations Children’s Fund (UNICEF). Feature performances include Combined Efforts Theatre and speaker Chen Cui. Any community members wishing to perform can sign up at Uptown Bill’s the week before the event.

The program will focus on the efforts of UNICEF to provide aid to children throughout the world with limited access to health care, education, and nutrition. Audience members will have the opportunity to show support with donations for the Trick-or-Treat campaign, a month long campaign to spread awareness and raise funds for children in developing worlds. UNICEF operates in more than 190 countries and territories to save and improve children’s lives and has helped more kids than any other humanitarian organization. Due to UNICEF’s efforts, child deaths have been cut in half since 1990 by providing vaccines to more than 50% of the world’s children.

The program is co-sponsored by UI Amnesty International and Young Altruistic Professionals of America (YAPA).

06J:146 International Business Environment
The increasing complexity and dynamism of the international environment requires that we take an interdisciplinary approach to the study of international management. In this course we will use theories and concepts from organizational behavior, human resource management, sociology, communication studies, and psychology to increase our understanding of both our own and other cultures. We will also use short stories in order to examine these themes in more detail. Similar to case studies that are used in many business courses, these short stories provide a vivid context in which we can explore these theories and concepts and apply them to organizational situations both in the United States and internationally.

The class format is very interactive and will include lectures, guest speakers, cases, in-class activities, and group discussion.

This course is most appropriate for juniors and seniors with an interest in issues related to international business.

Please contact the instructor, Erin Johnson, at erin-johnson@uiowa.edu if you are unable to enroll in the class directly from ISIS. Approved for International Business track.

NOTE: This course was formerly titled Introduction to Africa for the Health Sciences. Students who have completed 187:155 Intro to Africa for Health Sciences may NOT enroll in this course.

This course challenges students in the health sciences to consider what they must learn in order to apply their professional skills in unfamiliar societies. Taking Africa as an example, it will lead students to think about how knowledge of culture, economies and history can enhance their ability to apply their skills in African nations. The course will use a wide variety of materials, including not only readings by historians and social sciences, but also videos and fiction by African writers. Among the themes to be covered are i) African environments and their challenges to human health, ii) relations between genders and generations in African societies, iii) the historical experience of Africans in precolonial, colonial and post-colonial periods, and iv) the causes and consequences of economic underdevelopment in Africa. In addition, the course will look at the ways in which Africans combine indigenous and biomedical therapies. It will examine healing institutions and conceptions of illness which are very old in Africa, and also the relatively recent development of biomedical health professions. It will also look at the lives of both traditional healers as well as African physicians and nurses. Assignments will deal with practical problems created by cultural unfamiliarity which health professionals might encounter in Africa. Grading will be based on several short writing assignments and class participation. The course instructor, James Giblin, is the co-director of the African Studies Program. Approved for African Studies, Global Health Studies, Development, and Global Resources & the Environment tracks.

152:183 The Health Experiences of Immigrants, Migrants, and Refugees
This interdisciplinary course explores the unique health concerns, challenges, and healthcare experiences of the diverse populations on the move around the world and new to this country. It incorporates documentary materials and guest speakers experienced in responding to the health needs of these interesting individuals; and assignments based on experiences outside the classroom. Issues to be explored include four overlapping sections: 1.) Broad Overview--definitions, populations, and significant health challenges; 2.) Health risks and needs of specific sub-populations; 3.) Patterns of Public and Private Resources and Responses; 4.) Local Picture
To heal is to restore to sound health, to make whole again. Trying to heal the traumas of war, for combat soldiers, and civilians too, can take many forms. Through a variety of storytelling media, this course considers six sources of healing: comrades, family, nature, humor, art, and restorative justice. Stories told through fiction, film, creative nonfiction, and electronic media--stories told across time and territory--display this valuable array of strategies for healing. We will read and view a number of them from the last 100 years, looking at how the different storytelling arts use their resources to teach us about how healing can occur and to inspire us to embrace healing practices. In addition to English majors, this course is especially suitable for student veterans—whether combat or noncombat veterans--, and students in social work, nursing, or pre-medicine. Others are also welcome. Assignments include several short reading/viewing tests and two papers as well as the expectation that students will add to the syllabus examples they find of healing stories. Optional opportunities for service work in Veterans Hospital or the Coralville Primary Care Clinic can be woven into course assignments. Books will be available at the University Bookstore. For more information, email the instructor at barbara-eckstein@uiowa.edu. Approved for War, Peace, & Security and Global Artistic Tradition & Change tracks.

IGPI and SLIS Open House

The Interdisciplinary Graduate Program in Informatics (IGPI) and the School of Library and Information Science (SLIS) invite you to our Fall 2013 Open House.

Adler Journalism and Mass Communication Building - Rotunda
Friday, November 8, 2013
2:00 p.m. -- 4:30 p.m.

Join us to learn more about two exciting graduate programs that address not only how we produce and manage information but how we can find innovative ways to answer questions and solve the problems facing today's society.

INFORMATICS brings information technology together with the arts and humanities, and the natural, biological, health, and social sciences. It deals with the transformation of people by technology, and vice versa, resulting in information that has the capability to solve entirely new problems or successfully attack existing, persistent problems from a different perspective. For more information, visit: http://informatics.grad.uiowa.edu/prospective-students.

LIBRARY AND INFORMATION SCIENCE merges the fields of library science and information science and applies the practices, perspectives and tools of management, information technology, education and other areas to libraries, preservation, archival science, and the political economy of information. For more information, visit: http://slis.grad.uiowa.edu/prospective-students.

Internships with the Cold War International History Project

The Cold War International History Project (CWIHP) at the Woodrow Wilson Center is currently accepting internship applications for the Spring 2014 academic semester. The application deadline is November 15, 2013.

The Project supports the full and prompt release of historical materials by governments on all sides of the Cold War, and seeks to accelerate the process of integrating new sources, materials and perspectives from the former "communist bloc" with the historiography of the Cold War which has been written over the past few decades largely by Western scholars reliant on Western archival sources. It also seeks to transcend barriers of language, geography, and regional specialization to create new links among scholars interested in Cold War history.

Interns at the Project will assist with research at archives and libraries, editing document manuscripts, publishing, translating, and disseminating CWIHP bulletins and working papers, coordinating scholarly conferences, and answering various information requests. Interns will also assist with digitizing, describing and uploading historical documents to the CWIHP Digital Archive. Interns at CWIHP are at the forefront of the debate and research over the historiography of the Cold War and will gain valuable knowledge from interaction with CWIHP staff, Woodrow Wilson Center Fellows as well as visiting scholars.

For more information, visit http://www.wilsoncenter.org/opportunity/internships-the-cold-war-international-history-project-1.

To apply, email a resume and cover letter to the Cold War International History Project at coldwar@wilsoncenter.org by November 15, 2013.

Internships at The Adroit Journal

In partnership with the University of Pennsylvania’s Kelly Writers House, The Adroit Journal (www.adroit.co.nr), a charitable print/online literary publication, is looking to expand. To facilitate our growth, we are seeking college/university students interested in the journal’s various marketing, communication, humanitarian, layout, and legal responsibilities—in addition to our wealth of poetry and prose staff reading positions. Currently, our staff is comprised of approximately sixty high school and college students from Mauritius to Oklahoma, New York to Singapore, Kentucky to Alberta, and everywhere in-between. We would be delighted to consider Iowa students as additions to our community.

For example, we are currently seeking human rights correspondents to orchestrate the annual humanitarian features for inclusion in the journal’s winter issues. Additionally, business-minded students might be interested in our marketing and advertising correspondent positions, and communications students might be interested in the roles of blog editor or social media correspondent. Furthermore, we are looking to find community service liaisons that might be interested in working with our partner charity, the Fill-A-Room Literacy Campaign, to coordinate the distribution of future print copies of our publication free-of-charge to underprivileged institutions and venues within regional hubs of Baltimore, Chicago, Boston, New York City, Berkeley, Los Angeles, and Philadelphia. Finally, of course, we are always looking for more staff readers to help our current staff sift through the ever-growing collection of submissions. To check out all the positions offered (or to find more information on those I just listed), please feel free browse through the Employment Catalogue, which contains all of the necessary application and job description information.

The application period for these various positions will close on November 13th, 2013. In the meantime, we will begin to evaluate applications on a rolling basis. Interested students may apply for as many positions as they would like and, although prior experience is always appreciated, we are always willing to work with staff members as necessary. This opportunity is open to anyone, anywhere—regardless of academic institution or academic major. Please feel free to contact theadroijournal@gmail.com with any questions.
International Program Intern – Spring 2014
Center for Economic and Policy Research (Washington, DC)

Job Description: The Center for Economic and Policy Research is currently looking for a full-time International Program Intern for Spring 2014 (Late January-June 1st).

Responsibilities include assisting staff with research on upcoming papers and opinion pieces; organizing events with Latin American delegations, CEPR staff, and visiting academics; assisting in the production of the Latin American News Round-up by compiling daily news clips on Latin America and the Caribbean; as well as working on outreach to press, advocacy organizations, and Congress.

The responsibilities vary based on their interests and experience, as well as the particular issues that CEPR is working on at the time. Interns will be able to attend relevant events around Washington, DC.

Qualifications: We are looking for applicants with a general understanding of economics, international relations, and democracy issues, and an interest in economic justice. Previous research, data and/or outreach experience is extremely helpful; interns with strong economics or foreign policy experience (including Master’s degrees) will have the opportunity to engage in serious research, and those with strong organizing or outreach experience will have event management opportunities. The intern will need to be fluent in Spanish, including the ability to perform accurate written translations; able to work in a fast-paced environment with limited management; and be a self-starter and independent learner. Should have excellent writing and communications skills.

Stipend: At least $1,550 per month, plus up to $250 for health insurance reimbursement per month.

Closing Date of Position: November 18, 2013.

To Apply: Send cover letter, resume, and a brief (2 page) answer to the question “How can the US improve its foreign policy toward Latin America?” via email to internationalintern[at]cepr.net. No calls or faxes please.

Organization Description: The Center for Economic and Policy Research (CEPR) was established in 1999 to promote democratic debate on the most important economic and social issues that affect people's lives. It is an independent nonpartisan think tank based in Washington, DC. CEPR is committed to presenting issues in an accurate and understandable manner, so that the public is better prepared to choose among the various policy options.

CEPR is an ideal place to learn about current economic and global justice issues in a friendly, relaxed and fun environment. Work schedules are flexible.
Interested in sustainable, grass-roots solutions to contemporary international issues in global health, gender, and development?

Consider the FALL 2014 Global Health in India: Immersion in Gender, Environment, Health and Development Study abroad program

The University of Iowa Global Health in India study abroad program in Mysore, India is administered by the Vivekananda Institute of Indian Studies (VIIS). The program allows students to explore major global health issues and to witness real-world solutions. Classes are conducted in English and include travel to nearby NGOs’, HIV clinics, women’s self-help organizations, tribal village outposts, organic farms, and an alternative medicine (Ayurveda) hospital. Students also can participate in service-learning projects and internships and gain hands-on experience in both urban and village settings. Tentative program dates are August 15 - December 15, 2014. Courses include the following (review syllabi on the UI Study Abroad website):

- Sustainable Development: India and the Global Context 3 s.h. = 152:191
- Environment & Health in Modern India 3 s.h. = 152:192
- Indian Culture and Civilization (4 s.h.) may be petitioned as International and Global Issues for CLAS general education
- Gender in Indian Society (3 s.h.) may be petitioned as Values, Society and Diversity for CLAS general education

Contact Karmen-berger@uiowa.edu to discuss how these classes will fit into your International Studies or Global Health Studies graduation plan.

Funding is available through six South Asian Studies Program $2500 Scholarships which are earmarked only for this program; the Stanley Award for International Research; as well as merit, need-based, and Diversity Ambassador scholarships through UI Study Abroad.

The overall purpose of this popular study tour to Great Britain (offered since 1989) is to foster more health-related linkages and partnerships between the United States and England and Wales. A major focus of this study tour is having the participants become engaged in an in-depth professional and cultural experience to include planned, individualized work-shadowing (practical experience) opportunities.

GOALS:

- To provide an overview of the health care system offered through the National Health Service (NHS) and other providers in Great Britain
- To compare and contrast the British health care system with the systems of health care delivery in the United States
- To provide an overview of health education and health promotion strategies for health enhancement (individual and population-based) in Great Britain
- To compare and contrast the British health education and health promotion strategies with the strategies applied in the United States
- To connect participants with key cultural aspects of Great Britain that have health-related impacts
- To engage participants in individualized work-shadowing (practical experience) opportunities that align with their interests and professional needs
- To provide an historic, social and cultural context for health and health promotion in Great Britain

PROGRAM COSTS:

The program fee for UI participants is $4,091. This includes all educational and administrative expenses, air travel (Cedar Rapids–London–Cedar Rapids), tour-related travel within Great Britain, lodging (double–occupancy), selected meals, and entrance fees in Great Britain. An early registration discount of $100 will be applied for applications postmarked by September 27, 2013.

CREDIT:

2 S.H. of elective credit from the University of Iowa are available at the undergraduate or graduate level.

DEADLINE:

Registration must be submitted by November 1, 2013.

Early registration must be postmarked or submitted by September 27, 2013.

Program Summary
This is a three credit-hour, interdisciplinary, service-learning course co-sponsored by the University of Iowa and District 6000 of Rotary International. The course meets weekly with travel to Mexico over spring break. Readings and classroom sessions will focus on service-learning, teamwork, intercultural competence, Mexican culture and history, project planning and development and analyzing, reporting and presenting as a team. In collaboration with Rotarians and local community members, students will work in teams to develop and execute discipline-specific projects that address community-identified needs in Xicotepec de Juárez, Puebla, Mexico.

Xicotepec, Mexico
Xicotepec is a city of 90,000 located 116 miles (186 km) NE of Mexico City. The area is mountainous (3,600 ft/1100 m) with abundant vegetation. The main products are coffee, flowers and plants, stainless steel and clay for porcelain fixtures.

Cost
The program fee for the Spring 2014 class will likely be $1,900 for residents and non-residents. This program fee includes travel from and to Iowa City, lodging, and meals (except two meals in Mexico City). The program fee does not include tuition; personal items such as souvenirs, bottled water and toiletries; museum admission fees; tips; and two meals while in Mexico City.

Interested?
Students interested in taking the class should contact Professor Mary Noonan (mary-noonan-1@uiowa.edu) to get an application form. Applications are due to Professor Noonan by Friday, November 8, 2013. Interview appointments will be made in November. If you have questions about the course or would like an application, please contact Professor Noonan (phone: 335-2490; email: mary-noonan-1@uiowa.edu). Passports are required, so plan ahead if you need to apply for one.

Alternative Spring Break with No More Deaths
For the past five years, No More Deaths has conducted a successful Alternative Spring Break program during the month of March. Spring Break volunteers—mostly college students, mostly arriving in groups—do essentially the same things summer volunteers do, just with a bit more emphasis on education. Volunteers interested in participating in the Alternative Spring Break program must submit a "request for space" in December and will subsequently contacted to complete an application in January. Please contact the Volunteer Coordinator for more information, volunteer@nomoredeaths.org.

Volunteers Needed at Wright Elementary!
Wright Elementary in Cedar Rapids has seen its student numbers nearly double in two years. Class sizes are averaging 30, and the teachers are looking for help in any capacity. Any time between 9:30-3:00, M-F, they need help with one-on-one or small groups in math, reading, phonics, writers workshop, and even recess time. We have a lot of children who have not had the opportunity to participate in organized sports, games, or just social activities so recess can even be a great chance to make a difference. For more information, please contact Jill Ozarowicz, jozarowicz@cr.k12.ia.us, (319) 929-6020.
Individuals with disabilities are encouraged to attend all University of Iowa sponsored events. If you are a person with a disability who requires a reasonable accommodation in order to participate in this program, please contact Karen Wachsmuth in advance at 319-335-1436.

Apply to be a Carnegie Endowment Junior Fellow

The Carnegie Endowment Junior Fellows Program provides an opportunity for 10-12 students who desire careers in international affairs to have a substantive one-year working experience in Washington, D.C. Junior Fellows provide research assistance to scholars working on Carnegie Endowment programs. Due to the limited number of students we can accept, we require that all applicants be nominated by their university and that universities nominate no more than two. Applicants must be graduating seniors or students who have completed their bachelor's degree within the past academic year. No one will be considered who has started graduate studies (except those who have recently completed a joint masters/bachelors program).

- Application Open: October 15, 2013
- UIHP Campus Nomination Deadline: Friday, November 15, 2013
- Opportunity Deadline: Monday, January 15, 2014

Interested students are encouraged to contact Kelly Thornburg, UIHP Fellowships Director, at 319-335-1874 as early in the fall as possible to schedule a Scholar Development Conference. Appointments will not be scheduled via email.
Join us to discuss strategies and timelines for putting together a successful Stanley application with:

- Karen Wachsmuth, International Programs

Register Today! 4th National Conference for Women in Sustainable Agriculture

The 4th National Conference for Women in Sustainable Agriculture, coming up November 6 - 8 in Des Moines, is a great opportunity for women to connect and learn through 42 wide-ranging workshops, 9 fascinating field tours, and 3 inspiring keynote addresses.

Keynote speaker Pakou Hang will give her presentation during the closing luncheon, at 12:30 p.m. on Friday, November 8. Her talk is titled Our New American Food Communities.

Pakou is a seasoned community organizer with particular expertise in New American communities. Born in 1976 in the Ban Vinae Refugee Camp in Thailand, but now naturalized as an American citizen, Pakou is a member of the Hmong community in Minnesota. She served as deputy political director to Senator Paul Wellstone's 2002 re-election campaign, and managed the 2001 campaign of Mee Moua, elected to the Minnesota legislature as the first Hmong woman in history to win a state legislative seat.

Pakou is now executive director of the Hmong American Farmers Association, a non-profit organization she co-founded in 2011 to support and advocate for Hmong farmers and their families. Pakou has helped her family farm for more than 20 years, and still sells every weekend at the Downtown St. Paul Farmers Market. She graduated from Yale University in 1999, and from the University of Minnesota with a master's degree in political science in 2009.

Iowa Organic Conference at UI Nov. 17-18

The 13th Annual Iowa Organic Conference, scheduled for Nov. 17-18, will once again bring national experts, the latest in organic agriculture production research, and the voices of local experience together on the University of Iowa campus.

Conference organizers are Iowa State University Extension and Outreach organic agriculture, the University of Iowa Office of Sustainability, and New Pioneer Food Cooperative in Iowa City.

Organic producers, consumers, conventional farmers, and others interested in science-based research in organic agriculture and practical applications for farming systems will find a wide variety of topics and speakers at the 2013 conference. The keynote speaker is Bob Quinn, a Montana organic farmer with 4,000 certified acres producing organic grains, alfalfa hay, vegetables, and fruits. He will speak about on-farm biodiversity and the benefits of multiple crops in terms of spreading risk and providing ecological services.

A pre-conference reception begins at 6 p.m. Sunday Nov. 17, followed by a 7 p.m. showing of the film GMO-OMG in the IMU Ballroom. Conference registration begins at 7:30 a.m. on Nov. 18 with a welcome at 8 a.m. and concluding at 5 p.m. An all-organic lunch will be prepared by UI Dining Executive Chef Barry Greenberg and his staff, featuring regional foods as well as produce grown by UI and ISU students.

Registration information is available at the conference website, and online registration is available here. Early registration deadline is Nov. 1. For more information, contact Delate at 515-294-7069 or kdelate@iastate.edu.

Submit to the Weston Essay Prize

The UI Center for Human Rights sponsors the annual Burns H. Weston International Human Rights Essay Prize. Each year, two awards are made: one to an undergraduate and another to a graduate or professional school student. The prizes honor the fine work of University of Iowa students and the lifetime work of Professor Burns H. Weston of the College of Law. The winners receive $750 (undergraduate) or $1000 (graduate or professional student), and are recognized at an awards event. The writing competition is open to all students enrolled during the 2012-2013 school year at the University of Iowa, Iowa State, or the University of Northern Iowa in any academic discipline.

Undergraduate essays should be 15-20 pages in length; graduate essays 25-40 pages in length. Essays can discuss current events or history, law, public policy, or the arts & humanities. The essay does not need to be produced exclusively for the competition in order to qualify for review; the essay can be a paper written for a class. The only requirement is that the essays address issues of international human rights.

The deadline for the 2013 Weston Essay Prize competition has been extended to December 20, 2013. Please bring essays to the UI Center for Human Rights office in 1120 University Capitol Centre or mail to UICHR, 1120 UCC, 201 So. Clinton Street, Iowa City, IA 52242.

Submit to the Love of Learning Poetry Prize

University of Iowa undergraduates are eligible to submit one poem about their love of learning. Submit your poem in person or via Campus Mail to CLAS, 120 Schaeffer Hall by 4:00 pm on December 20, 2013.

Phi Beta Kappa Officers will read the poems and choose the one they feel best speaks to our motto, “the love of learning is the guide of life.” One recipient will receive $100 and the poem will be posted on Iowa’s Phi Beta Kappa website at http://clas.uiowa.edu/students/opportunities-students/phi-beta-kappa

Students will be notified in February via UI email. The recipient is welcome to read the poem at the May PBK ceremony.

The Love of Learning Poetry Prize is awarded by the Alpha of Iowa Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. Learn more about Phi Beta Kappa at http://clas.uiowa.edu/students/opportunities-students/phi-beta-kappa/membership.

THE ROBERT D. DOCKENDORFF SCHOLARSHIP

The Robert D. Dockendorff Scholarship is to be used to support one or more annual scholarships for University of Iowa students with preference given to undergraduate students who are active in the Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual, Transgender community, who contribute to the diversity of the University campus, and who demonstrate financial need. One or more awards ranging from $1000 to $4000 will be granted for the 2013-2014 academic year.

BIOGRAPHY

Robert D. Dockendorff graduated from The University of Iowa in 1960 with a B.A. in Sociology. He is a native of Danville, Iowa, and his family still owns a farm there. Mr. Dockendorff has lived in San Francisco for many years and worked for the Pacific Maritime Association there for 35 years prior to his retirement. Mr. Dockendorff's interest in student aid stems from his belief that education is the key to solving the country’s problems. Through the years, he has been very involved with the San Francisco schools and also served many years on the Ethics Committee for the city of San Francisco.

ELIGIBILITY

1. Students who are active participants in the Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual, Transgender community.
2. Students who contribute to the diversity of The University of Iowa campus.
3. Students who demonstrate financial need.
4. Students must be in good academic standing (have a minimum 2.0 cumulative GPA on a 4.0 scale).
5. Both undergraduate and graduate students may apply; however, preference will be given to undergraduates.

TO APPLY

1. Complete and sign the application form available online at http://www.uiowa.edu/~lgbsfa. This form is also your release of information authorizing the Office of Student Financial Aid to give the committee the required financial need information.
2. Write an essay no longer than 1,000 words, typed, double-spaced on an 8.5 x 11 sheet of paper or electronically, telling us about your participation in the LGBT community; your contribution to the diversity of The University of Iowa campus; and your educational and career goals.
3. Attach your most recent financial aid award notification, printable from ISIS.
4. Attach a copy of your grade report, printable from ISIS.

SELECTION

Recipients shall be determined by a selection committee made up of members of the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender Staff and Faculty Association in coordination with the Office of Student Financial Aid. Applicants that are selected will be notified via mail by November 30, 2013.

DEADLINE

All materials (application form, grade report, financial aid award notification and essay) must be submitted electronically to or postmarked for submission to the address below no later than November 1, 2013:

Donald M. Payne International Development Fellowship Program

2014 Graduate Fellowship Program

Howard University, in cooperation with the U.S. Agency for International Development, invites outstanding individuals interested in international development and careers in the USAID Foreign Service to apply for the 2014 Donald M. Payne International Development Graduate Fellowship. Candidates can be graduating seniors or college graduates with strong academic records and a desire to promote positive change in the world. The Payne Program encourages the application of members of minority groups historically underrepresented in the Foreign Service and those with financial need. Selected fellows will receive support for graduate school and will enter into an exciting and rewarding career.

PROGRAM BENEFITS

- An orientation to the Program and the USAID Foreign Service at Howard University in Washington, D.C.
- Two summer internships, one domestic the summer after selection and one overseas at a USAID Mission during the summer between the first and second years of graduate school. The Program provides stipends, transportation and housing for these internships.
- Up to $35,000 annually toward tuition, fees and living expenses for a two-year master’s degree in international development, international affairs, public administration, environmental sciences, public health, agriculture or another area relevant to the work of the USAID Foreign Service.
- Mentoring from a USAID Foreign Service Officer throughout the duration of the fellowship.
- Employment in the USAID Foreign Service for those who successfully complete the program and Foreign Service entry requirements, with a contractual agreement committing each Payne Fellow to a minimum of three years of service as a USAID Foreign Service Officer.

ELIGIBILITY

- Must be a U.S. citizen
- Must be seeking admission to enter a two-year graduate program in the fall of 2014 at a U.S. university
- Must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.2 or higher on a 4.0 scale at the time of application

Application Deadline – January 27, 2014
