ICFRC Lecture Luncheon – Tuesday, Sept. 10, 12:00-1:15pm

Professor Jonathan Carlson - Reining in Phaeton’s Chariot: Principles for the Governance of Climate

Climate engineering is generally defined as the deliberate modification of large-scale Earth systems in order to change the climate. The most widely discussed form of climate engineering is the injection of particles into the stratosphere to block sunlight and cool the Earth. Increasingly, scientists and policymakers are seriously considering the use of climate engineering techniques to cool the Earth and offset the warming impact of rising atmospheric greenhouse gas concentrations. This talk discusses the dangers posed by climate engineering and argues that it should be subject to an international governance regime rather than being controlled exclusively by national governments.

Professor Jonathan Carlson is a graduate of the University of Chicago Law School and McGill University, and also a proud native of North Dakota. He has lived in Iowa and taught at the University of Iowa College of Law for 30 years. His current teaching and research interests are focused on how international law can be effectively used to address pressing global environmental problems.

Register here, or contact the ICFRC office at (319) 335-0351 or ICFRC@uiowa.edu.

Lectures are 12:00-1:15 pm @ Congregational Church, 30 North Clinton Street. Luncheons are $9.00 for ICFRC members, $12.00 for non-members. We encourage you to bring guests who would enjoy this topic. Honors students, please register through the UI Honors or the UI Honors facebook site: www.facebook.com/HonorsatIowa.

Volunteer for National Public Lands Day, Sept. 28

On Saturday, September 28, volunteers around the nation will visit their favorite parks, beaches, wildlife preserves, or forests and chip in to help improve these treasured places – and to celebrate the 20th annual National Public Lands Day, the largest, single-day volunteer event for public lands in our country, coordinated by the National Environmental Education Foundation.

Volunteers are needed at Herbert Hoover National Historic Site in West Branch, Iowa to help plant trees, spread gravel and mulch on the landscape, and wash down picket fences. Volunteers who participate will be rewarded with a coupon for free entry into their favorite federal public land areas that have entrance fees.

If you would like to help, contact Adam Prato at (319) 643-2541. Meet at the Visitor Center at 8:30 a.m. for an orientation and to get signed up. Work will be from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. Dress for the weather and wear comfortable work clothes. Water, sunscreen, insect repellent, sunglasses, and hats are recommended. Long pants and closed-toe footwear are required.
Proseminar in Cinema and Culture

The Fall 2013 Proseminar in Cinema and Culture, titled, "Martial Arts and the Cinema" meets Thursdays at 6:30 pm in 101 Becker Communication Studies Building (BCSB).

All screenings are free and open to the public. Screenings are followed by discussions that are also open to all. If you require special accommodations to attend please contact corey-creekmur@uiowa.edu. Students may also still register for this 1 s.h. credit course: 048:112:001.

The Proseminar began with two of the earliest instances of martial arts in the cinema, the boxing film Jack Johnson Vs. James J. Jeffries (1910) from the United States and the wuxia film Romance of the Western Chamber (Xixiang ji) (1927) by Hou Yao from China. The two films offer an opportunity to consider a number of issues including the delineation between sport and martial art, the relationship between cinema and bodily violence, all while attending to the central matters of race and Orientalism.

Future weeks will feature a wide range of international films that include an equally wide range of traditional and contemporary forms of martial arts.

This series is organized and led by Se Young Kim, PhD student in Film Studies and sponsored by the Institute for Cinema and Culture.

A Golden Year for Professor Jerry Croft

Have you ever taken one of Dr. Jerry Croft’s off-cycle courses, such as Germany and the Amanas, Pella and the Dutch, Poland and the Czech Republic, the European Union, and Developed and Developing Places? If not, this is the year to do it! 2013-2014 marks Jerry’s 50th year of teaching. Read on to learn more about this popular professor’s journey to Iowa and the International Studies Program...

Jerry Croft grew up in a small town in southern Kansas, just 10 miles from the Oklahoma border. He was an all-state athlete in football and basketball during high school, and he began attending Kansas State with the intention of playing basketball, but never made the varsity team. Though he always loved learning about other countries and cultures, until he met a professor from the Geography Department he didn’t even know that geography was a major!

After transferring to Oklahoma State, Jerry completed both a BA and an MA in Geography, before receiving his Ph.D. in Social Studies and Geography Education from Tulsa State University in 1971. In 1966 at the age of 25, though he only had a Masters degree, he was offered a job teaching geography at Oklahoma State; after teaching for 25 years, he became that institution’s youngest professor emeritus. He then taught at Tulsa State for a few years before moving to Iowa when his wife, Dr. Laurie Croft, got a job here at the University of Iowa.

Jerry began lecturing at Iowa as an adjunct professor in the Geography Department (now the Department of Geographical and Sustainability Sciences), teaching his area and culture-focused courses for Global Studies, which eventually became the International Studies Program. According to Jerry, teaching at Iowa is like heaven after the more research-oriented ethos of Oklahoma State, and he loves that he can teach small classes of his own design using the Socratic Method.

While at Oklahoma State, Jerry long dreamed of creating a course called European Ethnic Towns of the Upper Midwest, covering towns in Iowa, Wisconsin, and Minnesota. That dream was the basis for the short courses he teaches at Iowa – the only one in Iowa still missing is Norway and Decorah, because Decorah is a bit too far away for a one-day field trip. As anyone who has gone with Jerry to Pella, the Amanas, or the Czech Museum in Cedar Rapids can attest, Jerry firmly believes in the value and usefulness of the field trip as a teaching and learning tool.

Jerry loves fall semester, when everyone is fresh and excited for the upcoming year, and autumn is in the air. He loves that his courses are a way for students who may be brand new to campus to connect in a smaller, more welcoming setting. And he loves to be able to encourage students to follow their passions, no matter what the naysayers claim.

Congratulations on your Golden Year of Teaching, Jerry!

The overall purpose of this popular study tour to Great Britain (offered since 1989) is to foster more health-related linkages and partnerships between the United States and England and Wales. A major focus of this study tour is having the participants become engaged in an in-depth professional and cultural experience to include planned, individualized work-shadowing (practical experience) opportunities.

GOALS:

- To provide an overview of the health care system offered through the National Health Service (NHS) and other providers in Great Britain
- To compare and contrast the British health care system with the systems of health care delivery in the United States
- To provide an overview of health education and health promotion strategies for health enhancement (individual and population-based) in Great Britain
- To compare and contrast the British health education and health promotion strategies with the strategies applied in the United States
- To connect participants with key cultural aspects of Great Britain that have health-related impacts
- To engage participants in individualized work-shadowing (practical experience) opportunities that align with their interests and professional needs
- To provide an historic, social and cultural context for health and health promotion in Great Britain

PROGRAM COSTS:

The program fee for UI participants is $4,091. This includes all educational and administrative expenses, air travel (Cedar Rapids–London–Cedar Rapids), tour-related travel within Great Britain, lodging (double–occupancy), selected meals, and entrance fees in Great Britain. An early registration discount of $100 will be applied for applications postmarked by September 27, 2013.

CREDIT:

2 S.H. of elective credit from the University of Iowa are available at the undergraduate or graduate level.

DEADLINE:

Registration must be submitted by November 1, 2013. Early registration must be postmarked or submitted by September 27, 2013. Applications are available from Study Abroad, 1111 University Capitol Centre.

The Iowa Latino Conference – Attend or Volunteer!

The Iowa Latino Conference was founded in 1998 to explore the changing demographics and dynamics of Latino communities in Iowa, and to strengthen the responsiveness of policy makers, business leaders and community-based organizations. It has become a cherished gathering of Latinos and non-Latinos as a place to emphasize the strengths of Latino culture and to provide networking opportunities for Latino leaders who live and work in Iowa.

The conference consists of the Latino Youth Development Summit for Latino/a high school students and the Latino Institute for Professional Development for anyone interested in increasing their awareness of issues impacting the Latino/a community in Iowa. The conference is free and open to all. Space is limited, so register early. For more information, go to www.iowalatinoconference.org.

If you would like to volunteer, please email us at latino-conference@uiowa.edu.

Do you have what it takes to be GoAbroad’s next great travel writer?

Now is your chance to prove it! GoAbroad is thrilled to announce the “Next Great Travel Writers” Contest, featuring an opportunity to have your travel stories published on GoAbroad.com, the leading online resource for meaningful and alternative world travel.

Those who submit their travel stories will also be entered for a chance to win a grand prize of $1,000 to be put towards their next travel experience.

To read more contest guidelines and rules, please visit the link below: http://www.goabroad.com/writer-contest.

All entries should be emailed to writers@goabroad.com. Please review the Contest Entry Guidelines for details of what to include in this email entry.

Preferred authors for this contest are those who have actually been to the places, or experienced the events they are writing about. GoAbroad is looking for interesting, colorful, and precise details that show a knowledge or experience of the place or activity featured in the article!

The contest will run from July 1, 2013 until October 31, 2013 at 11:59 MST. Winners will be announced on Monday, November 4, 2013.

All entrants that are selected as contest winners will also receive a biography within their published article, and the chance to get their work seen by a broad international audience. The GoAbroad online communities encompass more than 67,000 world travelers, and with over a million visitors to GoAbroad each month, this is an opportunity not to be missed!

If you have any questions about The Next Great Travel Writers Contest, please contact Tiffany Harrison, by email: tiffany.harrison@goabroad.com.
AmeriCorps VISTA, Volunteers in Service To America, is a national service program dedicated to eliminating poverty by helping individuals and low-income neighborhoods make positive changes for themselves.
