

Dr. Rosalie Kane is a Professor, Division of Health Policy & Management, University of Minnesota and is CMS' QAPI demonstration project director. Her extensive research addresses the quality of nursing home care and homecare, services allocation, evaluation of residential models that serve disabled elderly people, specialized programs for Alzheimer's disease, and studies of family caregivers of disabled elderly. She serves on numerous editorial boards and holds appointments in the School of Social Work and the Center for Biomedical Ethics. She has a PhD, Social Work, University of Utah, 1975, an MS, Social Work, Simmons College, 1965 and a BA, History/English Literature, University of Toronto, 1962