Assistant professor, University of Southern Mississippi, School of Social Work

“I saw that there were many forms of financial assistance available through the school. I was a TA, which helps for a large portion of my tuition and also received the Graduate School Diversity Scholarship which helped pay the rest of it. The school was also located in Iowa City, which makes it close the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics and other organizations, which makes for finding practicum site and places to intern much easier. The program itself I knew was very reputable throughout the state, and previous supervisors who had attended the MSW program here seemed to really enjoy as well. “
