IV. New business
   a. Dean Goddard
      i. Vision for CLAS and council: Dean is attempting to align the vision for CLAS with the president’s vision for the university.
         1. Strategic planning process to commence soon
            a. Intention is for departments to produce strategic plan drafts by December 2019
            b. Collegiate strategic plan should be drafted by February 2020
         2. Updated strategic plan likely to maintain “four pillars” referenced in existing 16-21 strategic plan
         3. Dean’s philosophy of planning is to start with goals, then devise a plan, and last consider the budget.
            a. Will be asking departments for annual operations plan that supports strategic plan and helps allocate resources
            b. Encourages reallocation of existing money to new endeavors, rather than relying on new money ii. Refocus on departmental leadership/control of resources – more autonomy in decision making
   1. Dean’s expectation is that, with budget decisions made at the department level, the departments will be able to do more with the same budget because they will make different choices than the CLAS would have made and be able to find efficiencies
   2. Departments may also be able to find new cost savings and/or revenue streams
   3. The DEOs should resume leadership as “executive” of departments

b. Questions and comments for Dean Goddard from the CLAS Staff Council
   i. CLAS Staff Council encourages Dean to support DEOs communication with staff, especially when decisions are being made at a faculty level ii. Further information about new budget model? Dean explains that new budget model will roll out to departments 9/16/19 and is based on average for last three years and anticipated needs for current fiscal year. Reminder that most resources in CLAS are revenue from teaching classes.
      1. Discussion of research award allocation
      2. Discussion of state appropriations and tuition. At college level, based on number of majors. Dean wants number of majors separated from funding formula at department level; nor will budget allocation to department be based on credit hours.
   iii. Dean would like CLAS Staff Council to help call attention to transition update website: https://clas.uiowa.edu/excellence-and-impact.
   iv. CLAS Staff Council encourages Dean to include staff representation in strategic planning process. Dean explains that strategic planning committee will likely be comprised of members from elected groups including from CLAS Staff Council.
